IN PERFECT HARMONY.

THE DEMOCRATS WILL ACT THE REMAINDER OF THE SESSION.

A Caucus of the Democracy at Which Morrison, Ran-dall and Carlisle Arrange a Programme of Business-Disrilssal of Bailway Clerks-Rivers and Harbors-Other News.

Washington, June 24.—[Special].—When Tom Reed sneeringly asked this morning which wing of the democratic party had charge of the sundry civil bill, Mr. Randall

Never mind, both wings will flap together after awhile!

This prediction was justified by the harmonious spirit which characterized the demo cratic caucus tonight. Speaker Carlisle, Mr Randall and Mr. Morrison heartily co-operated in the effort to arrange a programme for the remainder of the session which will keep all elements of the party well in line and obviate all discord. These three gentlemen were appointed a committee to prepare a programme of business, and whatever they recommend will surely be agreed to. This movement looks toward an early adjournment, and tonight the fifteenth of July is named as the latest probable finish. Messrs. Randall, Morrison and the speaker conferred informally last evening and decided not to press the amendment of the rules until the democrats had a quorum. The attitude of the republicans rendered it impracticable to do so. In accordance with this understanding, the sundry civil bill was taken up in the house this morning. It is the intention of the democrats to go on with the appropriation bills until such time as they are sure of a quorum. There are at present something over a hundred and fifty democratic members in the city, but several of them are confined to their quarters by sickness. Whenever the democrats are sure of a quorum they will call up the resolution and pass it. Many leading democrats of the house are in favor of making the proposition to provide for pensions by special taxes the leading issue in the coming campaign. They think the income tax plan will meet

UNITED STATES JUDGES. The Senate Passes a Bill Fixing Salaries of

District Judges at $5,000. WASHINGTON, June 24 .- After routine morning business in the senate, the bill repealing the pre-emption and timber culture laws was laid before the senate. On request of Mr. Pugh, it was informally said aside to permit the consideration of the bill providing for the appointment and comation of a United States district judge for southern district of Alabama. Mr. Logan moved, as an amendment, the provision of the bill heretofore passed by the senate fixing all district judges' salaries at $5,000 a year.

Messrs. Kenna and George opposed the amendment so far as it related to the increase of salary, Mr. George maintaining that when cotton was down to 9 cents per pound, wheat to 70 cents per bushel, it was no time to increase the salaries of gentlemen who had life

Mr. Logan advocated the amendment, which was agreed to, the first division (relating to salaries) by a vote of 32 yeas to 20 nays; the second division (prohibiting nepotism) by a vive year vote.

The bill as amended was then passed.

The bill repealing the pre-emption and timber culture laws was then proceeded with, and after a short debate passed; yeas 31,

On motion of Mr. Dolph, a committee of conference was ordered on the disagreeing votes of the house and senate on the bill. The Fitz John Porter bill was then laid before the senate.

Mr. Sewell said it was the same bill that had passed before. There was nothing to be said now that would throw any new light on its subject matter. A mere statement of facts would be sufficient.

Mr. Sewell then recited the salient facts in ne military history of General Porter.

After a long speech, going over much

Sewell had the clerk read a number of resolutions of grand army posts, urging the passage of the bill. The people, he continued, had finally come to see that instead of being criminal, General Porter was a martyr.

"He comes now before you," said Mr. Sewell in conclusion. "He comes now before you for, I trust, the last time, to ask for justice—nay, Mr. President, to demand it. The time has gone by to ask that favors may be granted to this man that has been wronged. I, who know him, as a citizen of my state, and as a man whom I have seen in the front of many a fight—I now demand justice of the United States for this man who has been so grossly wronged."

"The other wing of the democratic party seems to have taken charge today," observed Mr. Reed.

The motion having been agreed to, the house went into committee of the whole. (Mr. Rea-gan in the chair) on the sundry civil bill, Mr.

[This was greeted with loud applause on both sides of the house.]

The pending amendment was that offered by Mr. Warner, of Ohio, providing that no money appropriated for the bureau of engraving and printing shall be used in printing United States notes of large denomination in lieu of notes of small denominations.

Then a debate sprang up over the propriety of the amendment just adopted, Mr. Bland, of Missouri, vigorously denouncing it on the ground that it would have the effect of interfering with the standard silver dollar, and Mr.

ering with the standard silver dollar, and Mr. Weaver, of Ohio, as vigorously supporting it and declaring that the standing of the green-

In answer to a remark made by Mr. Cannon in presenting an amendment which would have the effect of placing twenty-five addi-tional employes of the bureau of engraving and printing, under a provision of the civil service law, Mr. Randall said:

"I have one really to make. I will not yote

"I have one reply to make. I will not vote to put any additional officers under civil service law, so long as the age limitation exists."

On motion of Mr. Bland, of Missouri, an amendment was adopted authorizing and rem quiring the secretary of the treasury to issue silver certificates of denomination of 1,2 and $5 on all surplus silver dollars now in the treasury in payment of appropriations finde in this bill and other expenditures or litigations of the government

FOR INSUBORDINATION.

Twenty-Seven Railway Matl Clerks Dismissed from the Service.

Washington, June 24.—The following special notice was today issued by the general superintendent of railway service.

By order of postmaster-general, the clerk named below have been relieved from service for subordination in conspiring to obstruct the regs ation of service by the department and to injure ulation of service by the department and to high its efficiency.

They have secretly attempted to form an association with a view to dictate action to the department and many of them have also been guilty of deeption towards their fellow clerks by representing the purpose of such association to be merely benevolent and thus entangling them. At the same time the postmaster general directs me to express his gratification in that so few comparatively could be found to engage in such a schame and his acknowledgment to those who have kept the department informed.

A list of twenty-seven clerks in the railway

A list of twenty-seven clerks in the rail way mailservice is appended, all of them located west of Pittsburg, north of the Ohio river and east of Omaha, a majority of them in Ohio, Indiana and Illinois.

The postmaster general, in further explanation of the cover which seveled in their tion of the causes which resulted in the issuance of this notice, in an interview this afternoon, said: "Several weeks ago information was received by the department that a few postal clerks who were apparently conscious that there were reasons for their removal from the service, were endeavoring to enlist the co-op-eration of postal clerks generally in an association to be formed for the purpose of inter-posing their opinion on questions of removals by threatening a strike, or the combined resignation of many clerks at one time, so as to menace the department with embarassment. The attempt to enlist general co-operation failed, a greater number of postal clerks who were approached on the subject refusing to entertain it. It was the plan of the origina-tors, after the initiation of a number, during which he was bound by an oath to secresy and obedience, to secure his resignation in blank, and to have all resignations the bands of the executive committee to be filed simultaneously and to require clerks who were members of the association to abandon their run at a time to be fixed. Their object was to maintain their own position and tenure of of-fice. The department has waited until the principal ringleaders and executive officers were certainly known and those removed embrace all those who have been specially ac-tive. In point of fact," continued the postmas-ter general, "the scheme never secured general favor and the department is not desirous of punishing by removal those who have been cheated into nominal co-operation, but does not wait for enterprise."

It is a curious commentary on the folly of a." said the speaker, "that upon examining the files in cases of the men who are remove by this order, it appears that very many of them have been complained against for some reason and their removals sought before, but the department had refused to make the removals, and entry had been made their cases for their retention. The their cases for their retention. Their position would have been quite secure had they not forfeited it by insubordination. The headquarters of the movement has been in Indianapolis, Ind. Some little effort was made to organize at Chicago and other places, but with no success. I do not anticipate the least trouble or inconvenience to the business nterests of the country," concluded the post-master-general, "in consequence of these re-resignations from any who have been active in

THE SWITCHMEN STOP THE RAIL-ROAD TRAINS.

The Lake Shore and Michigan Southern Doing N.
Business-Interviews With the Officials and the Strikers-A Stock Jobbing SchemeNews From Different Sections.

CHICAGO, June 24.-The situation at the yard of Lake Shore railroad in this city remains unchanged. Regular passenger trains are moving as usual but an effectual blockade of freight traffic has occurred. No freight trains have been moved and up to 8 o'clock no attempt of any kind had been made to make, up trains. Incoming trains have all been stopped at Englemead and other stations outside the city and judging from the former experience of the railroad, unless the state af-fords protection, the company will be power-less against the strikers. The town of Lake. within the precints of which the strike is confined, has a small police force un-able to cope with the crowd of strikers and their adherents. The sheriff of the county, during the former strike, made no serious ef-fort to disperse the crowd, and in a published interview today condemns the railroad com-pany, and declares it has not lived up to its agreement, intimating that it offered to dis-charge non-union men. What basis he has for this assertion has not yet been explained. His attitude, however, taken in connection with experience in the former strike, has occasioned surprise, and subjected him to comment. A few of the town of Lake police are at 43d street this morning, where a large crowd had street this morning, where a large crowd had already gathered at 8 o'clock. Shortly after 3 o'clock an engine, in charge of Engineer Shea, pulled out of the round-house at Forty-first street. It was immediately surrounded by the strikers, some of whom attempted to climb into the cab, but were beaten or pushed off by the Lake police. The excitement became very marked, and the men for a time were very threatening. The relies expected even of the threatening. The police arrested one of the most violent strikers and succeeded in taking him to the town of Lake police station. The police succeeded in clearing the track, after which the engine went up to Forty-third street to the vicinity of the Forty-third street to the vicinity of the caboose which was abandoned yesterday. The caboose which was abandoned yesterday. The crowd grew momentarily greater and more boisterous, and the courage of the engineer finally descring him, he reversed the lever and took the engine back to the round house. The crowd cheered frantically when the effort to man the train was abandoned.

One of the papers this morning says the enly attempt at an explanatian of the cause of the strike appeared in a rumor that it was the result of a preconcerted stock jobbery scheme. It was alleged that a party of town of Lake and Stock Yards speculators had sold short a heavy stock of Lake Shore stock. To short a heavy stock of Lake Shore stock. To bear the market in their own interest they negotiated with a few of the leaders of the switchmen in the town of Lake to bring about the strike with the result that appeared yesterday afternoon. If this be true, it is not likely that the strike will continue for any length of time. The engineers and firemen express no sympathy with the strikers, but it is thought by parttes in the neighborhood that when they are called on to take out their engines they will be as reluctant to respond to the summons as they were during the late trouble. Sheriff Hanchett has gone to lows. Deputy Sheriff Watson said this morning that the company has not asked for any ing that the company has not asked for any deputies to protect the property of the road.

John Newell, president of the Lake Shore road, published an open card today, in which he says, regarding the statement that the company had agreed to discharge non-union men in its employ:

"I desire te say that no such agreement was ever made by me with any person, and I never expressed or implied that the eight men in expressed or implied that the eight men in question should be discharged, removed to other places or transferred to another position, nor was any such promise made on behalf of the Lake Shore company, but on the contrary positively refused, at all times, to make any such premise, or permit any such understanding." In connection with this, a short hand account of the conference between Newell and Should Harchett is published which supports

Sheriff Hanchett is published, which supports Newell's statement. It is also shown that Sheriff Hanchett signed a paper pledging that the men would be discharged within sixty days, and that he endeavored to induce Newe to sign this paper. The latter declared that he would not be a party to any such compact, and renewed his statement that the men could remain as long as they chose in the company's employ.

At the various newspaper offices this evening a committee of strikers exhibited, as an explanation of their course, the following communication dated during the former strike, and written in Sheriff Hanchett's chirography up-written in Sheriff Hanchett's chirography upon one of his cfficial letterheads:

THE CASE OF OPPENHEIMER.
CHICAGO, June 24.—An officer who is thoroughly familiar with what has been done by the police and officers of the state, is working up anarchist cases, and in preparing indict-ments and evidence, says the man Oppenhei-mer, who has occupied a cell in Chicago avenue station for the past six weeks, has not been held either without cause or contrary to his own will. He seems to have been a promi-nent member of the anarchist order, and after reading the reports of the Haymarket riot, on the morning of May 5th, actually started down town with a supply of bombs for the avowed purpose of blowing up the newspaper offices. For some reason he changed his mind, and a few days later fell into the hands of and a few davs later fell into the hands of Capiain Schaack. Once in the hands of the law, of which he had long been an avowed enemy, he began to think better of it and imparted valuable information, of which his captor made excellent use. It was through him that the police got trace of many of the bomb factories and secured much, if not all of the evidence which will be used to prove a conspiracy to destroy life and property. His information was valuable, suggesting how and where evidence could be obtained, but not very much evidence itself. ble, suggesting how and where evidence could be obtained, but not very much evidence itself, so he has not been used as a witness and possibly will not be. Having made himself useful to the police, he began to fear the society of his old associates, and it was to protect him from personal harm, as well as keep him away from the influence of his fellow-anarchists, that he has been detained so large. He has never compained until recent.

lorg. He has never complained until recent-ly and has grown fat in his confinement. He has been sent out regularly every night when the weather was not stormy, in company with an efficer, for exercise, and has never taken vantage of his liberty to appeal to outsiders thelp, or complained of his treatment. One or two other persons who were connected with anarchist societies before the bomb-throwing, and who made themselves useful to police subsequently, have not been kept in custody, and as a consequence their services have been lost to the state. One of these, named Hermann, after his release upon promise to appear and give evidence in the present trial, subsequently sent word to the state's attorney, through the "letter box" of the Arbiter Zeitung that he might "go to h—l," as he would not appear. Still another has been threatened and annoyed by friends of the prisoners and by auonymous letters until he has sent word to the state's attorney that he believes his life will be in danger if he comes on the stand and tells what he knows. have been lost to the state. One of these,

These witnesses are not the only ones who have been threatened with bombs or with death in various violent ways. Captain Schaack has probably received more threats of this kind than any one, and his family is living in a state of constant alarm. His wife's health is badly impaired by constant excitement and fear.

The police have secured an exceedingly im-cortant witness in the anarchist cases. Diportant witness in the anarchist cases. Directly after the Haymarket massacre, William Hoyt, a laborer, told some of his friends he was present at Haymarket on the night of the butchering and "knew a thing or two." This came to the ears of officers and he has been taken into custody. To the state attorney he states that he stood beside the wagon that contained Spies Schwab, Fielder and Parsons on the night of the 4th of March and heard their inflammatory speeches. When the bomb was thrown, he saw Parsons pull two revolv-ers out of his pockets and discharge their leads into the ranks of the police. Further de tails of Hoyt's statement are withheld by the state's attorney.

IN SYMPATHY WITH THE ANARCHISTS.
ST. Louis, June 24.—There was an interesting scene enacted at the court of criminal sessions today in connection with the election of a special judge to try the cases of the an-archists charged with indorsing, at an unlawful assemblage, the actions of their Chicago but here during the Haymarket riot in that city. There were only a score of members of the bar present to participate in the election, and a majority of these evidently favored the defense, for William Busch, au outspoken advocate of socialistic doctrines, was chosen. Judge Noonar recognized the significance of their choice and, knowing him to be at present visiting in New York city, ordered that he qualify by or before six o'clock this evening, which time was also mentioned for a new election, should Busch not appear. Prosecuting Attorney Claiborne arese and asked leave to enter a nolle prossequi in the cases. Judge Noonar answered:

'It is exceedingly unfortunate that such as you describe brought about. I do result know how or where to fix the responsibility for delay that this selection has caused, except to place it on those who participated in the election. Gentlemen before taking part in these elections, should acquaint themselves with the facts in the case. Your nolle prosequi in this case is accepted by the court." New warrants, however, were immediately issued for the anarchists and they will be rearrested, and another judge will be elected to try the cases.

TO THE ELECTORS OF CENTRAL BIRMINGHAM

He Cannot Support the Government Measurs—Other Matters Pertaining to the Issue in Great Brit-ain—The French Princes—Interesting News From All Parts of Europe,

LONDON, June 24 -In the house of comnons tonight, Labouchere protested against the action of the marquis of Salisbury in the house of lords on the 22nd instant. Salisbury opposed the election bill because of certain clauses which he considered objectionable. and which, he said, had been introduced in the bill after Mr. Gladstone had promised to avoid all contentious matter for the remainder of the session. In consequence of Lord Salisbury's opposition, the objectionable clauses were withdrawn. Mr. Labouchere declared that it was a perfect farce to have a representative govern-ment if the house of lords was allowed to act in such a way as to place the members of the house of commons in the position of slaves of Salisbury. Labouchere was content to leave the country to judge of the subject. Mr. Gladstone has written a letter expressing regret that he will not be able to speak at Leeds on account of engagements elsewhere, the fulfilment of which will be as much as his strength will bear.

Joseph Chamberlain went to Glasgow tolay.

When the train stopped at Preston, in Lancashire, a large crowd which had assembled at cashre, a large crowd which had assembled at the railway station jeered and hooted at the dissident leader. Among the cries was this: "You're in the wrong beat this time, Joe."

It is stated that Right Hon. U. E. Grant Duff, president of the Madras province of India, intends to resign his office, in protest against Gladstone's home rule rule policy.

JOHN BRIGHT'S MANIFESTO. John Bright has issued the following manifesto to the electors of central Birmingham: festo to the electors of central Birmingham:

Gentlemen: Thanking you for having elected me in November last, I am now most unexpectedly forced to again address you. Since Novembera single question has occupied the attention of the house of commons and the country. It relates to the future government of Ireland and consists of two bills, which were thrust unon parliament and the country by the government. One of those bills was rejected. The other was withdrawn.
We are not told by Mr. Gladstone or by his colleagues how much or how little of those unfortunate proposals will reappear in the next parliament. We are asked to pledge ourselves to principles which may be innocent or most dangerous, as ment. We are asked to pledge ourselves to principles which may be innocent or most dangerous, as nay be explained in future bills. I cannot give such a pledge. The experience of the past three months has not increased my confidence in the wisdom of the administration or in its policy respecting the future government of Ireland. We have before us a principle which Mr. Gladstone and his supporters do not explain. I will not pledge myself to what I do not understand and cannot prove. In 1872 I wrote a letter to an Irish gentleman from which I extract these short sentences.

"To have two legislative assemblies in the 'nited Kingdom would work intolerable mischief. As sensible man can wish for two such assemblies who does not wish that the kingdom shall become wo or more nations, entirely seperate from each other."

who does not wish that the kingtom shan become two or more nations, entirely seperate from each other."

I still adhere to this opinion, if possible more firmly than before. I do not oppose the views of the government on account of Ergland more than on account of Ireland. No Irish parliament can be so powerful or just as the united imperial parliament at Westminster. I cannot trust the peace and interest of Ireland, north or south, to the Irish parliamentary party to whom the government now proposes to make a general surrender. My six years experience of them and their language in the house of commons and their deeds in Ireland makes it impossible for me to hand over to them the industry, prosperity and rights of five millions of the queen's subjects and our countrymen in Ireland, leastways two million, are as loyal as the people of Birmingham. I will be no party to a measure thrusting them from the generosity and justice of the united imperial parliament. I have written so that no-body may be ignorant of my views. My vote in the reent division has given great grief, but my judgment and conscience made the other course impossible. For forty years I have been a friend of Ireland. Long before any Parnellite now in parliament, or any member of the present government opened his lips to expose and condemn the wrongs of Ireland. I spoke for her people in the house of commons and on rublic platforms. It is because I am still a friend pose and condemn the wrongs of freight, it spoke for her people in the house of commons and on public platforms. It is because I am still a friend of Ireland that I refuse to give her up to those to whom the recently defeated bill would have subjected her. If you re-elect me, I shall, to the utmost of my capacity, seek only what I conceive to be for the permanent and true welfare of our country.

Sincerely and gratefully thanking you for your past kindness, I remain, John Baight.

The annual hunting meetings at Chantilly forest have been stopped. Prince Jerome (Plon-Plon) is at Geneva en route to Italy to bring the Princess Clotilde, his wife, and their daughter to spend a season of three months at Prangius, Switzer arrason of three months at Francis, Swizer-land. The count of Paris left chateau de Eu at 11 o'clock. Just before his departure he stood surrounded by his family in the prin-cipal entrance of the chateau and bade farewell to twelve hundred persons who had called to convey to him their sympathy. The assemblage was sorrowful but orderly, and after the count's departure dispersed quietly. The journey from the chateau to Treport was made without any demonstrations. The count em-harked at Treport for England at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon. He will assume the title of marquis of Harcourt and remain incognito while in England. just as I had returned, happy in having formed a tresh tie between France and a friendly nation. In prosecuting me vengeance is taken in person on 3,000,000 voters, who on October 4 condemned the faults of the republic which sought to intimidate those daily detaching themselves from the present regime. In me is prosecuted the monarchial principle transmitted as a trust by him who had so nobly preserved it. It is desired to separate from France the head of a glorious family which guided her course for nine centuries in the work of national unity and which associated with the people alike in good and evil fortune; founded her prosperity and grandeur. The hope is cherished that France has forgotten the happy and peaceful reign of my grandfather, and a more recent time when my brother and nucle fought loyally under her flags in the ranks of her valiant army. Those calculations will prove failfacious. Taught by experience, France will not be misled as to either the cause or the author of the fils she suffers. She will recognize that the traditional monarchy, by its modern principle and by its institution can alone furnish a remedy. This nation, a monarchy of which I am the representative, can alone reduce the importance of men of disorder who threaten the repose of the country; can alone secure political and religious liberty, restore public fortune, give our demoratic party a strong government, open to all superior parties, and with the stability which will be in the eyes of Europe of lasting peace. It is my duty to labor without respite in this work of salvation, and with the aid of God and the co-operation of all those who share my faith in the future, I will accomplish it. The republic is afraid. In striking me, it marks me out. I have confidence in France, and at the decisive hour I shall be ready.

Ford's opera house auspiciously this morning. The main body of the opera house was occupied by the delegates, while the parquette, proscenium boxes and galleries were filled with ladies and gentlemen from Baltimore and abroad.

The Big Six band of Springfield, O., played an overture, and for an encore rendered the drummers' national song: "Good-bye, My Lover, Good-bye," and were enthusiastically joined by the voices of the commercial travelers in the theater.

Promptly at 10 o'clock President O. P. Pindell called the body to order. The state were dell called the body to order. The states were all represented, indicated by banners bearing their respective names. Rev. Wayland Ball offered prayer.

The theater was handsomely decorated with the national colors and the coats of arms of the states. President Pindell read his annual report which was lengthy, and showed the rapid growth of the organization. The membership has increased nearly seven thousand in the past year. The report of the secretary and treasurer showed a healthy financial condition. By a vote of the convention the national board of directors were ac corded seats in the convention, but not the right to vote. Quite an animated debate took place on the proposition to refer the pending amendments to the constitution to a committee with the privilege to report in twelve months.

PLANS RECEIVED FOR PUBLIC

The Plans Unanimously Approved of by the Cour and Ear-The Wedding Cake-United States Court-Injunction Refused-Cotton States Life Insurance Company-Personal.

MACON, June 24.-[Special.]-A letter, accompanied by drawings and designs of the proposed government building in Macon, have been forwarded to Judge Speer, and the bar of the Macon circuit examined and approved them teday.

The bar of Macon requested the judge to exert his influence in the matter. Judge Speer, as usual, very promptly wrote to the supervising architect, and thus secured the immediate attention of those in authority.

The plan shows the entrance on the corner of Third and Mulberry streets to the rooms up stairs. On Third street will be located the main entrance to the postoffice, which will occupy the entire first floor. Fronting on Third street, second floor, will be the marshal's, clerk's and district attorney's offices. A corridor will separate these from the judge's room on the Mulberry street side, and the witness' room on the opposite side of the courtroom, which will be 43x44 feet in size, and will occupy the principal part of the second floor. The entire building will be 80x95 feet in dimensions. The jury, toilet and closets will take up all the room in the attic. Following is a copy of the letter accompanying the plans:

Speer, United States Judge, Macon, Ga.—Sir: I am infecetpe, by reference from the honorable secretary of the treasury, of your letter of the 14th inst.,
inclosing resolutions of the bar of the United States courts holding seasion in Macon, and urging the completion at the earliest possible time of the new contribuse in that city.

In response thereto, permit me to say that as soon as it was possible for this office to take up the plans for that building, designs were prepared, the preliminary sketches having been somewhat delayed, pending a decisionlas to whether two courtrooms or one should be provided, and as the appropriation was manifestly inadequate for the erection of a building with two court rooms, it was decided to build one room of suitable size and to go on at once.

As soon as this decision was reached decided to build one room of suitable size and to go on at once.

As soon as this decision was reached plans were prepared and approved. Of these plans tenelose tracings for your finspection.

Under these plans the working drawings were at once begun, and work has been commenced upon the excavations, which by superintendent's reports will be completed at an early day. The foundation plan is ready and the drawings for the superstructure arein a favorable state and it is not anticipated that anything will occur to delay the progress of the building to an early completion.

Eyour own and the citizens' of Macon anxiety is appreciated, and you are assured that no efforts will be spared to push this work as rapidly as possible.

Referring again to the plans of the building sent Referring again to the plans of the building sent berewith, you will not find in them all the accommodations spoken of by you in your letter. The limit of cost of the building fixed by act of congress has determined the size of the building and the plans have been made with the intention of utilizing in the best manner the space therein. Originally it was intended to use a suite of three rooms in the first story for the court officers, but the postoffice declined to approve the designs until these offices were assigned to the postal service and the court room's accommodation was therefore reduced that much.

MACON, June 24 .- [Special.]-In the United States court today, a very important case was tried. It was the case of Thomas L. Frasier vs W. H. Moore & Co., for the recovery of five hundred dollars in notes. It seems that Moore hundred dollars in notes. It seems that Moore & Co., gave the note to Brice, who before maturity, deposited it with Swift & Co., as collateral security, and they advanced money on the note. Swift & Co., then sold the note to Thomas L. Frazier, and the latter sued for the recovery of the amount of the note. The defendant plead that the note given was only an accommodation note, without consideration; and that Frazier bought the note from Swift & Co. after maturity. The court dismissed the plea on demurrer on the ground that Frazier stood in the place of Swift & Co., and that the latter became possessors of the note before maturity. Defendant filed a petition setting up the plea that Frazier had no title to the note, because Swift & Co. held it as a pawn, and notice required under the laws of Georgia had not been given Brice, as was necessary before a sale given Brice, as was necessary before a sale could be made, and that the note had been settled by Swift & Co. Judge Speer sustained the demurrer on the last plea, that Frazier stood in the shoes of Swift & Co. If ad sold after maturity. Moore & Co. could not have set up such defense. The verdiet was as instructed by the court—five hundred dellars for plaintiff.

A case of a similar nature of Frazier vs. Butler, was decided in a like manner.

Injunction Refused,

Macon, June 24.—[Special.]—Judge Fort, presiding in the Davis vs. Covington and Macon railroad injunction case made public his decision today. He refuses the injunction on the general grounds of a failure to make a case on the part of the plaintiffs. This decision practically settles the several questions growing out of this Lusiness, and will allow the road to lay their track from the junction over the old Macon and Augusta route to the city of Macon. The case has been watched with a great deal of interest by both sides, as it involves the proprietorship of quite a snug little property and also the right-of-way of the new road and the position of the city of Macon in the contest.

AN INTERESTING CASE

In Chatham Superior Court-The Lease of Rice Plantations.

SAVANNAH. Ga., June 24.—[Special.]—A very interesting case, involving nearly fifty thousand dollars, is now on trial in the superior court and will probably last several days. Wm. T. Carmichael, a prominent rice planter, is the plaintiff and D. G. Purse and J. C. Rowland, defendants.

About a year ago the defendants bought from the plaintiff two rice plantations on the Savannah river, Deptford and Coustons, for $47,500, giving a mortgage to secure a portion. They then leased said plantations to the plaintiff on condition they be delivered at the expiration of the lease in same good condition they were when the lease was made. The plaintiff row were for a foredesize of mort. plaintiff now sues for a foreclosure of mort-gage on the ground that $11,000 with interest is overdue. The defendants acknowledge the correctness of the amount but put in a counter claim of $11,000 which they assert will be required to place the plantations in the same condition as when leased. The case excites unusual interest among rice planters and the court room is crowded all day. The case will probably not be concluded before Saturday.

OUR COLLEGES.

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES AT

OXFORD, Ga., June 24,- Special.]-To simply say that the large and cultured audience at commencement yesterday afternoon was interested and entertained by the literary address of Rev. J. B. Hawthorne, D. D., would feebly express the enraptured attention paid the distinguished gentleman, and the enthusiasm awakened by his eloquent oration. Some who have heard him on many occasions say that his effort on yesterday was the grandest of his life. From the beginning to the close of his address he held the attention of his audience well nigh spell-bound. His theme was "The Great Men of the South."

Dr. Hawthorne spoke of the duty of commemorating in brass and marble the virtues and heroic deeds of good and great men. Monuments should be erected in their memory, not only as a debt of justice to them, but to keep alive pure and patriotic sentiments in ourselves, and to serve as an inspiration to posterity. The speaker paid a glowing tribute to southern soldiers, southern statesmen and southern teachers and reformers, The people of the south honor the great and good men of the north, but we do cherish with our fondest affection, and bestow our highest honors upon the memories of our best and greatest sons. Nor is this treason. We of the south have not and will never yield our rights to honor southern soldiers. We are not to be denied the right to honor our fathers, brothers and sons. True men of the north make no demand that we do not honor Lee, and Jackson, and Breckenridge, and Gordon—illustrious men of the southern cause. Only those who were 'invisible in war and invincible in peace' do this,

A nation without sentiment is a nation without power and without purpose. Monuments awaken sentiment. Monuments of great men should be more numerous south of Mason and should be more numerous south of Mason and Dixon's line than anywhere. Thomas Jeffersen, George Washington, Patrick Henry, Henry Clay, John C. Calhoun, Alexander H, Stephens. Benjamin H. Hill, William Lowndes Yancey, Raphael Semmes, Judge A. B. DALTON, Ga., June 23.—[Special.]—Yesterday was a "Feld day" for the junior class of the Dalton female college. The exercises consisted in recitations and essays, interspersed with sweetest music by Miss Nellie Huff, in "Oberon;" Miss Emmie Carter, in "Moonlight on the Hudson;" in "Tom O'Shanter," by Miss Maggie Barrett; in "Serenade to Ida"—vocal duett, by Misses Mattie Trotter and Florence Richardson; in the "Whipporwill," by Miss Jennie McCutcheon—all beautifully rendered. In the recitations the contest was by Miss Jennie McCutcheon—all beautifully rendered. In the recitations the contest was very close for excellence all the way through. The "Martyred Mother," by Miss Ruth Allen; "June Conquest," by Miss Blanche Bivings; "The Last Banquet," by Miss Bannie Horne; "Legend of Breggens," by Miss Bessie Jones; "Tom's Little Star," by Miss Maggie Wooten—all were rendered so nearly perfect that an adept in elocation would be puzzled to delineate the difference. Miss Bertha Kellar in eate the difference. Miss Bertha Kellar, in 'Thora," surpassed herself, and in her rendition of her piece, she was unsurpassed. Miss Nellie Manley delivered a poem entitled, "The Vision of the future of Datton," which for the original excel-lence of the author and the effective lence of the author and the effective naturalness of the speaker completely captivated the audience and brought down the house. Miss Carrie Greene also read a splendid essay upon "The Needs of Dalton" in a most agreeable and natural manner. Miss Gussie McCutcheon very gracefully and attractively read an essay upon "Brooms," which certainly gave new light upon the value and importance of that article of use and merchandise.

Taken altogether, the exercise was a complete success, as all the exercises of the commencement have so far been. President and mencement have so far been. President and Mrs. Jones and their gifted son, Professor Jones, have revolutionized the commencement business, and put it upon a practical and orig-

The occasion was opened with prayer by Dr. often and the benediction pronounced by Bishop Hargrove.

The closing exercises of the Dalton Female ollege came off last night before an immense audience. A fine programme was rendered: The music was charing and the essays of the The music was charing and the essays of the young ladies evinced remarkable culture and were read with much grace and effect. At the close of the essays President Jones, in a short but happy speech, presented a diploma to each member of the graduating class. Bishop Hargrove then presented in a most impressive manner the prizes awarded in music to the successful contestants, as follow:

1. To Miss Jennie McCutchen, prize for greatest efficiency. 2. To Miss Mattie Trotter, prize for most work. 3. To Miss Sallie Quillin, prize for completing second grade in six months. Profesor Jones then read the various ments of the music class during the year.

This closes the first year of President Jones's administration. One hundred and fifty students were matriculated during the year, and the progress and drill of the students have been thorough and marked. The Dalton Fe-male college has never had a more prosperous term, or a more successful administration scarcely one to compare with it, if we are to judge by the excellence and freshness of the present commencement exercises. Every one thinks this year best all the records of the past.

The college will open the 1st of September, and Dalton bids high among all her sister cities for patronage, as the healthiest, most moral, and most beautiful educational locality in al, and most beautiful educational locality in Georgia, or elsewhere.

YOUNG'S FEMALE COLLEGE.

THOMASVILLE, Ga, June 24.—[Special.]—An immense crowd assembled at the chapel of Young's Female college last night to witness the closing exercises of an unusually bright year in the history of the institution. About a dezen young ladies received their diplomas and go out upon the world today as graduates of one of the best female colleges in the state. The compositions of the graduating class were excellent and reflected well the faithful training of their teachers. The calisthenic exerciing of their teachers. The calisthenic exerci-ses of the "little folks" was a popular feature of the entertainment and the vocal music brought down the applause of the house. Young's Female college is very popular in southwest Georgia and Florida and the atten-dance, which is always good, has been unusually large this year.

The address by John P. Ross was a master-ly effort. He has the grace of a finished ora-tor, and is in fact an orator. Mr. Ross is but a young man, and we prophecy for him a brilliant future.

The address by Mr. C. C. Cox was quite a literary treat. Mr. Cox graduated at Mercer university with first honor three years ago, and since then has been attending the Virginia university, taking a special course. He ginia university, taking a special course. He is to take charge of the college soon. Mr. Cox is one of the most finished scholars of his age in Georgia, and mothers would do well to have their daughters educated under him.

Resignation of a College President. COVINGTON, Ga., June 24.—[Special.]—President Homer Wright has resigned the presidency of the Georgia Female college, located at this place. President Wright is a fine scholar, a successful teacher and a Christian gentleman.

Your correspondent is unacquainted with President Wright's proposed movements, and can only chronicle his prospective loss to this community and college. The institution and community that is to secure his services will be fortunate.

From these sources arise three fourths of the diseases of the human race. These symptoms indicate their existence: Loss of Appetite, Bowels costive, Sick Headache, fullness after cating, aversion to exertion of body or mind, Eructation of food, Irritability of temper, Low spirits, A feeling of having neglected some duty, Dizainess, Fluttering at the Heart, Dots before the eyes, highly colored Urine, CONSTIPATION, and domand the use of a remedy that acts directly on the Liver. As a Liver medicine TUTT'S PILLS have no equal. Their action on the Kidneys and Skin is also prompt; removing all impurities through these three "scavengers of the system," producing appetite, sound digestion, regular stools, a clear skin and a vigorous body. TUTT'S PILLS cause no nauses or griping nor interfere with daily work and are a perfect ANTIDOTE TO MALARIA.

A QUESTION ABOUT Brown's Iron Bitters

ANSWERED. The question has probably been asked thousands of times. "How can Brown's Iron Bitters cure everything." Well, it doesn't. But it does cure any disease for which a reputable physician would prescribe 180%. Physicians recognize Iron as the best restorative agent known to the profession, and inquiry of any leading chemical firm will substantiate the assertion that there are more preparations of iron than of any other softsance used in medicine. This shows conclusively that iron is acknowledged to be the most important factor in snocossful medicine. It is, however, a remarkable fact, that prior to the discovery of BROWN'S IRON BITTERS no perfectly astisfactory iron combination had ever been found. BROWN'S IRON STTERS the teeth, on bisdache, or produce constination—all other from medicines do. BEOWN'S IRON BITTERS cures indigestion, Bilionsness, Weakness, Dysposin, Malaria, Chills and Fevers, Tired Feeling, General Debility, Pain in the Side, Back or Limbs, Headache and Neural-gia—for all these silments Iron is prescribed daily. BROWN'S IRON BITTERS, not cure in a mute. Take all other thorough medicines, it acts say, when taken by men the first errapiom of ment is renewed energy. THE CAR ACCOUNTANTS.

IMPORTANT WORK ATTHEIR CON-VENTION IN BUFFALO, N. Y.

estions-Constitution of the General Com-mittee for 1886-The Next Convention to Meet in Atlanta in April, 1887.

The annual convention of car accountants sessions were important and interesting, that of the last day, Wednesday, being especially so. An outline of the proceedings of that session, compiled from the Buffalo Courier, of the 17th instant, is appended for the benefit of the readers of THE CONSTITUTION.

The first question discussed was: "How should foreign mileage be reported?" After a long and interesting debate, during which as many ideas were expressed as there were debaters, the subject was relegated to the chairman's table for future action.

The next question was, "Should individual milesge reports be made monthly?" It was decided that the time had come when correct reports should be made, and it was decided that a committee of three should be appointed to take the matter in hand.

Next came the question "Should there not to take the matter in hand.

Next came the question, "Should there not be a uniform mileage rate on passenger, bagge, express and postal cars." The different existing rates were mentioned, from which it was apparent that reform was desirable. On motion President Wilder appointed as a committee to report on the subject, H. W. Pratt, of the St. Louis, Keckuk and Northwestern; T. J. Hoyle, of the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia, and H. C. Johnson, of the Pittsburg and Lake Erie. They reported the following schedule, which was adopted by a vete of 33 to 13; Coaches and combination cars, three cents per mile; postal cars, two cents, and baggage and express cars, one cent.

At the afternoon session the president named as a committee on 'individual mileage reports C. J. Fellows, of the Cleveland, Columbus, Cincinnati and Indianapolis; E. C. Spalding of the Westernoon of ing, of the Western and Atlantic, and D. W. Moore, of the Grand Rapids and Indiana. They were instructed to report at the next meeting on the desirability of a plan for the mutual intercharge.

metering on the desirability of a plan for the mutual interchange of records of the daily movement of cars.

The sixth question read: "Why should not 'boarded' cars, with the signatures of officers of railreads, be handled promptly and in accordance with the instructions on these boards?" It was decided that there was no reason why they should not be so handled, and a resolution to that effect was adopted.

a resolution to that effect was adopted.

D. W. Mooar, of the Grand Rapids and Indiana, read a paper on the question, "Are junction reports, with the present junction cards, as adopted by the Car Accountants' association, giving as much information as they should, or should the form be changed so as to include the point of delivery and the mark opposite loaded cars?" He took the ground that the association had not in its meetings given the subject due attention.

On motion of H. G. Sleight, of the Vandalia line, an extra column was ordered added to a resolution to that effect was adopted.

On motion of H. G. Seight, of the Valuatia line, an extra column was ordered added to the junction cards to show by means of a mark whether the car was loaded or empty.

It was decided to be advisable on all general tracers from the home company to direct connections to show at what point or points deliveries were made.

The ninth question, which was regarded as of great importance, was as follows: "With whom does the responsibility for cars rest—with the road receiving such property from the home company, or does it not shift beyond to reads' junction cards locate car on? Is it not the duty of owners to trace and look to such latter road for return, irrespective of what road originally delivered to, or that car may have passed over?" After an exhaustive debate, the following resolution, introduced by E. M. Horton, of the Illinois Central, was acopted:

Resolved, That it is the sense of this association that roads on which the car is located is responsi that roads on which the car is located is responsi-ble for its return, and is the line to which the tracer should be sent.

E. C. Spaulding, of the Western and Atlan-E. C. Spaulding, of the Western and Atlantic, read at this juncture a very interesting paper on the life of freight cars. The life of an ordinary freight car he placed at thirteen and a half years. For the first five years it was a good investment, but for the second five the repairs generally absorbed the income. With these facts in view he did not consider three-quarters of a cent an excessive mileage. The tenth question was: "Should mileage paid on individual cars, tank line and private horse cars?" It was decided in such cases to be proper for the accountant to consult with the proper freight official of his road whether they pay mileage or not, and act acone they pay intege or not, and do not cordingly.

On a motion that the report of the committee on the distribution of cars, left over from Tuesday, be heard, the chairman, D. M. Maroney, of the Baltimore and Ohio, stated that he had prepared a paper on the subject but had left it unfortunately in Baltimore. He promised to send the namer to be printed in the ised to send the paper to be printed in the official proceedings.

On motion of F. J. Hoyle, of the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia, the meeting proceeded to elect a committee of five to visit the general managers at their annual time convention to be held in New York in October, and recommended that action be taken on the and recommended that action be taken on the switched car, uniform mileage for passenger equipment and other pressing and important questions. The gentlemen elected were: J. A. Keesbury, of the Pennsylvania; F. J. Hoyle, of the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia; E. C. Spaulding, of the Western and Atlantic; W. A. Moody, of the Bichmond and Danville; J. C. Hunt, of the Grand Trunk; and C. P. Chesebro, of the Wabash, St. Louis and Pacific.

Treating about the recent change of gauge the Memphis Appeal says: The total cost of change of gauge on the Louisville and Nashville railroad was $231,239. This would make the total average cost to the Louisville and Nashville for changing gauge of engines, cars and track for 2,159 miles of lines about $107 per mile. If this is a fair average for all the roads, it would show the 2,159 miles of lines about $107 per mile. If this is a fair average for all the roads, it would show the net cost of the change of gauge on the 12,618 miles of lines to be $1,350,126. While this is a large sum of money, it is small in comparison with the benefits which will result from the expenditure. This amount would build and equip only fifty-four miles of new road, at an average cost of $25,000 per mile, and yet many times this sum has been squandered in building parallel roads which the country did not need, and whose construction resulted in permanent loss to existing roads. The establishment of a practically uniform gauge throughout the country will be worth many millions, particular to the south, and will be paid for in a comparatively short time.

A Locomotive Sold. Mr. J. V. Motter, of the Rhode Island locomotive works, has been making headquarters in the city for some time. He has just sold to Mr Harry Hill a locomotive for the new failroad from Union Point to White Plains. Mr. Motter says the engine is first-class, and weighs thirty-two tons. He says also that in passing through Macon a day or two ago he saw a new locomotive, which is to be put on the Macon and Covington road. Mr. Motter is so pleased with Atlanta that he thinks of bringing his family here. He thinks prohibition is a big card for Atlanta.

Southern Passenger Agents. ASEEVILLE, N. C., June 24.-[Special.]— The southern passenger committee, at its meeting

The scathern jassenger committee, at its meeting here today, passed the following:

With the view of securing the encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic for the year 1857 at Nashville, Tenn., be it
Resolved, That the rate of one cent per mile for the distance traveled, arbitraries added to be named, for members and their families coming to and returning from said encampment, using circuitous routes if preferred, going one way and returning another.

The committee also authorized one cent per mile on excursions to old battlefield points.

THE TWO SAMS.

They Close Their Meetings at Indianapolis-1,000 Converts-A Grand Revival.

From the Indianapolis Journal. The last service of the Georgia evangelists rought another great crowd of people to the city hall yesterday morning. Notwithstanding the hour, nine o'clock in the morning, more than 2,502 persons were present, and the meeting was one of great interest, as marking the close of a remarkable season of religious awakening-or rather, as many hope, the beginning of a season of Christian labor and success. Prayer was offered by Rev. R. V. Hunter. His sentiment, "Thank God for the many prejudices that have been broken and swept away," received many fervent "amens." Several gospel hymns, among them "Welcome Home," "Bringing in the Sheaves" and "The Lily of the Valley," were sung.

cospel hymns, among them "Welcome Home," "Bringing in the Scheaves" and "The Lifty of the Valley," were sung.

As Mr. Jones sat upon the platform, looking over the audience, his sallow face, sunken and drawn tightly over his cheek bones, showed him to be a worn, man, feeble in body, but, as he began to speak, his sout triumphed over his orporea fraility, and he speke with a clearness and force that astonished and captivated his hearers.

After his sermon, Mr. Jones said that during these meetings he had not had much to say about the collections, but he wanted to say something about one collection now. For five years he had been carrying the orphans of Georgia on his shoulders, so to speak, and if he had been at home Jast Sunday he could have raised several hundred dollars for them. If anybody thought that he should have been there, instead of here, he wanted them to stand up, but nobody responded. Then he asked for anybody who thought he should have been here rather than there, and still thought nothing should be done for that orphan asylum, to stand up, and again there was no response. He announced that a collection would be taken up for the benefit of the orphans, and urged everybody to give something. "Now, you preachers shell down the coin pretty liberally," he said; "and you reporters, too—you give something; your time has come at last." There was very general response to this urgent request. esponse to this urgent request.

RESULTS OF THE MEETINGS. that this morning's service was the close of the that this morning's service was the close of the meetings of Mr. Jones and Mr. Small. As to the results of these meetings the temperance cause has been advanced. The conscience of the people as been quickened on the amusement question. There will be less dancing and theater going by church members from this time forward. The practical side of Christian life has been emphasized. More pains will be taken to make the eternal life conform to the Ten Commandments and the Sermon on the Mount. The churches have been brought nearer together. Ministers of almost every denomination have sat together on this platform and will be nearer together hereafter. Homes have been regenerated. Homes in which two weeks ago there was drunkenness, despondency, despair and death are now bright with harmony and hope and heaven. Thank God for the regenerated homes in this city, the direct result of the preaching of these brethren. Hundreds of sinners have been profoundly impressed and many brought to Christ. How many have been saved I cannot tell until-tetrnity will reveal. The results are great enough to compensate a thousand times over for all the money and every moment of time. [Turning to Messrs. Jones and Small.] Brethren, you have capuired our city. You have edified, exhorted and rebuked us with authority. You have melted us to tears with your tender pathos. You have ridden this field with a free lance. [Laughter.] However our paths may diverge here, they will converge hereafter and we shall meet in the city of God.

Mr. Jones—I want to take Brother McConnell's heand for you all. I am truly and completely exhausted. Take this shake of his hand as your own. Mr. Small said he wanted to thank every one for his kindness and generosity to him, and at once proceeded to do so in a few eloquent sentences.

ONE THOUSAND CONVERTS. meetings of Mr. Jones and Mr. Small. As to the

ONE THOUSAND CONVERTS.

The results of the meetings conducted by Evangelists Jones and Small in this city will not be accurately known, Rev. I. H. McConnell says, until the cards that have been distributed among those desiring to begin a new life are returned. He es-timates, however, that during the last week about a thousand persons have been converted. THE EVANGLISTS WILL RETURN.

THE EVANCISTS WILL IGHTER.

The evangelists, Revs. Jones and Small, accompanied by Musical Director Maxwell, left for St. Paul yesterday at noon. Before their departure Messrs. Jones and Small promised to return during the Acton camp meeting season, which begins on the 27th of next month, and remain a few days, if nothing occurs to prevent their coming.

Extravagance at Funerals

From the Freeman's Journal.

The "Gates Ajar," the "Broken Pillar," the "Cross and Crown," the "Sheaf of Wheat," and another hideous invention of the funeral florist, the 'Vacant Chair," were all there, Enough money "Vacent Chain," were all there, Enough money had been spent in these useless and ostentatious things to keep the dead man's family for several months. His coffin was piled high with "floral emblems," and 25 carriages waited around the corner to joing the regulation six which were permitted to stand before the church door. This was a pleasing way of "getting ahead of the priest," who had wisely forbidden that more carriages than the half dozen should attend any of his parishoners funerals. The next week the friends of the deceased were engagedin arranging a collection for the procuring of a sewing machine for—so the printed card of appeals aid—"a starving family."

OCONEE is little but she's loud.

OCONEE is small, but she puts Athens on notice that she's big enough to vote for herself.

In a vote of 41 Clarke went for Bacon. In a vote of 416 Oconee went for Gordon. When the people speak, it is always Gordon !

AND new comes John Bright with a manifesto, declaring he is the best friend Ireland ever had, but at the same time he canno vote to give her home rule.

THE two wings of the democracy in the house of representatives have agreed to act in harmony the remainder of the session. At a caucus last night a programme of business was mapped out.

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND is so busy exam ining private pension bills and writing vetoes that he has not the time to attend cabinet meetings. Therefore, no meeting was held yesterday.

THE Lake Shore railroad is in trouble again with its workmen. The switchmen assert that the road has not complied with the compact made with them last May, and have quit work. All attempts to move trains have proved futile.

OUR citizens are in danger of sleeping over the important matter of registration. Only two days remain. It will not do to neglect registration. Let those who have held back delay no longer. Ask your neighbors if they have registered, and tell them that the time is up Saturday.

WE trust that the public will be treated to a glimpse of the Telegraph's little table this morning. We know it's hard to put Oconee in the Gordon column, but the little table must come. It's been promised, and there's a heap of fellows looking for it. Clench your teeth and trot it out.

THE departure of the count of Paris from France was very affecting. Thousands of sympathizers with the exiles lined the streets leading to the wharf, from whence they embarked, and cheered them enthusiastically. As the vessel left its moorings the count raised his hat and exclaimed: "Vive la France," which was responded to by the people with cries of "Vive la Comte de

THREE brilliant campaigners made speeches for General Gordon on yesterday. Mr. DuPont Guerry at Newman, Colonel Albert Cox at Barnesville, and Colonel W. C. Glenn at Dalton. It would be hard in the state of Georgia to match these three young orators. They are brilliant, capable and patriotic. Wherever they have spoken they have had large crowds and great enthusiasm. They have met the ablest debators and have borne General Gordon's colors always gallantly. Their speeches have been in great demand from Gordon clubs throughout the state and have been distributed by the tens of thousands. They are eloquent in speech, earnest in conviction, and hard to handle. General Gordon is to be congratulated on the friendship and support of these brilliant young lieutenants. These are some of the friends of General Gordon to whom the Macon Telegraph alludes as "his paid emissaries" and criticises them as "the miserable gang." Any man may be proud of their support, the Telegraph to the contrary notwithstanding.

Good Little Oconee. The people came out in Oconee on yesterday, and the result was the Bacon programme was smashed and the county scored for Gordon. This is the most remarkable "surprise" of the many the Bacon maagers have been treated to. Oconee lies right under the shadow of Athens. It had been promised to Recon or was considered so sure for Bacon that the Bacon chairman of the committee changed the date and pushed it ahead so that it might affect the counties that act on Saturday. But the people took a notion to run the thing themselves, and the "cut and dried" programme was smashed. Oconee is the smallest county in the state. The size of its vote shows that the whole people were interested. It is in marked contrast to the vote of 41 by which Clarke county, its populous and pretentious neighbor, was given to Bacon. For the first time in our memory the county of Oconee refuses to stand with Clarke. There are many other counties that Athens has promised to Bacon that it will be unable to deliver. In the meantime, the people are waking up for Gordon. "The slander mills grind slow, but they grind exceeding fine."

Congressman Hammond, according to our special Washington correspondent, has been prompt to interest himself in the question relating to the building of a ten-company post in Atlanta. He has seen the secretary of war, and General Sheridan, and there will be no further trouble in regard to the matter. The buildings of the post are to be of brick, in ecordance with the plans and specifications furnished by Captain J. W. Jacobs, who has the work in charge. Whether the necessary appropriation is to be available immediately, we do not know; but the plair, neat, durable structures planned by Captain Jacobs, will, sooner or later, sitate the expenditure in Atlanta and its vicinity, the sum of $500,000. Moreover, the decision of the secretary of war will give to the government a ten-company post not only permanent, but perfect as to con struction. The plans provide for durability and comfort, and all the demands of sanitation, so that the expenditure decided on is really in the interest of economy.

Should it ever be necessary to enlarge the post, the plans of Captain Jacobs will be found ample, and the structures the best that could be desired. It is to be presumed that the work will go forward at once.

The Candidates and Joint Discussion. It is an unbroken rule in gubernatorial races that only the candidates are put up against each other for joint discussion. To put up against the candidate an outsider, is to put the candidate at a disadvantage. He is bound by all that he says, while his opponent is bound by nothing that his representative says.

When Major Bacon proposed a joint discussion for the state, General Gordon accepted it with pleasure. He went into the joint discussion, dividing time fairly with Major Bacon. This joint discussion was stopped, not by General Gordon's request. There was a general feeling that it was leading to a bitterness that was improper and unprofitable. It was, therefore, discontinued by mutual

The Gordon men accepted the discontinu ance of the joint discussion in good faith. They accepted it as a statement from each side that it was best that each candidate should make his own appointments and fill them, and that neither should be subjected to a joint discussion. Consequently they have never thought of sending any speaker to meet Major Bacon. Wherever Major Bacon has made his appointments he has found that General Gordon's friends have held off and given him the full benefit of his meetings. In one instance a local friend of General Gordon's proposed to divide time with Major Bacon. Major Bacon declined this, and the Gordon man and his friends at once withdrew and left Major Bacon to get the full advant age of his meeting. This same courtesy General Gordon is entitled to. He stood by the joint discussion just as long as it was continned, and he was notified by gentlemen representing each side that it was deemed best to discontinue it and let each candidate make his own appointments and fill them in his own way. He is entitled, therefore, to all that this implies. When he makes his appointments he should have the same courtesy that is given by his friends to Major Bacon at Major Bacon's appointments. We call the attention of both Major Bacon and General Gordon's friends to this, because General Gordon has been met at his appointments by friends of Major Bacon who insisted on his dividing time with them, or on making a closing speech at his appointments.

Millions in It.

A Boston special announces the death of Moses A. Dow at the age of seventy-seven. The statement is also made that the dead man left an estate worth over $2,000,000.

Mr. Dow's history is full of pointers for speculative publishers and literary men. He was a printer, and until 1850 earned about ten dollars a week. One day a big scheme flashed into his mind. He knew that the country was full of aspiring young writers who would give almost anything to see their productions in print. Why not start a periodical for the benefit of this class? The idea struck him favorably. He had less than five dollars in cash, but his credit was good for a few hundred dollars.

So Dow went boldly ahead and founded the Waverly Magazine. He paid nothing for contributions and published everything sent in. Every scribbler subscribed, and purchased extra copies to distribute among friends and acquaintances. After four months the paper was a success and commenced paying its proprietor a weekly profit of twentyning up at one time to 50,000 copies. The advertising also paid well. Dow soon had an income of $50,000 a year. He invested his money, and almost before he knew it was a

It is a singular fact that this man's success always galled him. He felt no pride in it. He was the wealthy publisher of a mammoth periodical filled with stories, essays, sketches and poems, and yet he was an outcast from literary circles. It did not help him to boast that he never published an immoral line. The answer was that what he published was simply balderdash. He had voluntarily made himself the organ of mediocrity and inanity, and even the poorest pen worker with a spark of the genuine literary spirit considered him beneath his notice.

There was nothing positively dishonest about the Waverly. Its owner, in his way, was a good citizen, doing his duty to his family, his neighbors and the community. Still he always felt ashamed of his prosperity, and regarded his reputation as falling little short of infamy. The point in the whole business is that Dow was willing to degrade literature for profit. No man can do this in such a country as ours and be respect ed. The humblest American believes that the purpose of literature is to elevate, in struct, refine and entertain, and people can not help despising the man who makes it his life work to flood the land with millions of tons of printed stuff whose tendency is to enfeeble the minds of its readers. This is no harsh judgment. The common instincts of intellectual self-preservation require us to place editors and publishers of the Waverly slush class under the ban, at least in a liter ary sense. Still, there is money to be made in publishing trash. The field is wide, and it offers tempting inducements to all lovers

Mr. Randall's Bill.

It is stated that Mr. Randall has a tariff bill which he is ready to offer as a substitute for Mr. Morrison's free-trade measure. Mr. Randall, according to report, began to prepare his bill a year ago, and has had it ready for some time. The probability is that he would have introduced it in the early part of the session if Mr. Morrison's bill had been introduced, but now that the Morrison measure has been practically disposed of we have no idea that Mr. Randall will stir up discussion and delay legislation by bringing his bill forward.

In one important respect, Mr. Randall's bill will commend itself to the people. It deals with the excise as well as with the customs duties, and is, in this respect, a genuine revenue reform bill. It has been the policy of this government, since its dation until the war period, to depend on customs duties for revenue, and a return to this policy is what every democrat ought peal of the tobacco tax, and a reduction of the tax on certain kinds of spirits. So far as THE CONSTITUTION is concerned, it is oppostd to the whole system of excise duties. These duties have never been laid, except in an emergency, and they are recognized everywhere as un-American and undemocratic. An internal revenue system in a republic in a time of profound peace is a fraud on the people and a general swindle. There is at this time no necessity for it, and it ought to be abolished.

To this extent we favor Mr. Randall's bill. With some modifications, we would favor the bill in its entirety, but Mr. Randall ought to understand, and undoubtedly does understand, that his bill, even if adopted by the house, would stand no chance in the republican senate, and the best thing he could do would be to postpone the introduction of the measure until such time as the democratic party has entire control of affairs. The position of THE CONSTITUTION is that all bills looking to a revision of the tariff are premature for the reason that they would be defeated in the republican senate. There is no reason why Mr. Randall should attempt to "make a record." The whole country, outside of a few rabid free-traders, knows that he stands on the democratic platform in the matter of tariff revision, and there is no necessity for the introduction of his tariff bill. Let Mr. Randall wait until the discussion of his measure would aid, rather than delay, tariff legislation.

Do We Want Nova Scotia? The talk in Nova Scotia of seceding from the dominion and seeking annexation to the United States has stirred up considerable excitement. It may be that the Nova Scotians have no serious thought of carrying out their threat. They feel that their rights have not been protected under the dominion government, and they desire better treatment. This may be their way of going to work to secure con-

But, admitting that Nova Scotia wishes to be annexed to this country, does it follow that we want her? The province has an area of 18,670 square miles, and its population can not be much over 400,000. The coast line is about 1,000 miles in length, and the shores abound in excellent bays and harbors. There are numerous rivers; the soil is fertile: the climate is temperate, and the natural resources embrace gold, coal and iron. The fishery traffic is enormous. Here we have the material for a very respectable state, but it is not worth getting into a row over. Our republic is peculiarly situated. She could not well refuse to ad mit Nova Scotia into our union, if the people of that province showed an earnest desire to enter, but, on the other hand, it is not our policy to encourage the dismember ment of the dominion, especially if the seceding communities run the risk of being coerced back. In other words, we can afford to take Nova Scotia when she is ready to drop into our hands. We want no complications, no new problems, no unpleasantness. This is about the size of it.

Breaking Bad News Gently.

Plain people mean well, but they have very blunt ways. When they have a piece of bad news to communicate they go straight to the point without regarding the feelings of the person addressed.

It is different with people used to the refinements of court life. When King Ludwig committed suicide it was necessary to inform his mother of the fact. No rude announcement was made. All possible care was taken to avoid shocking the old lady. The court chaplain went to her. He found a text in the Bible suited to the sad occasion and read it aloud. The king's mother listened with a smile on her face. Then the chaplain read it solemnly a second time. The royal lady looked puzzled. A third time the divine read the text, throwing into it all the emphasis of which he was capable. The attendants understood and burst into tears, and the bereaved woman collapsed mentally and physically, going off into a swoon. Having satisfactorily executed his delicate mission the chaplain withdrew. This high and mighty way of doing things reads very well, but after all the result was not very different from that in a case taken from the lower walks of life. A man who was sent to break the news gently to a poor woman, said when she opened the door 'Don't he flustered, madam, I just called in to say that your husband has been found drowned, and they are bringing his body home on a shutter !"

Bad news is bad news. No matter how it is told, it cuts to the heart, in the palace as well as in the cabin, whether it comes from a courtier or a clodhopper.

THE Philadelphia Times says "the supporters of Bacon still preserve a hopeful front."
The Times ought to come to Georgia and see their hopeless rear, which they are also preserving.

PHILADELPHIA people do not take much stock in the charges made by Mrs. Coulston against Rev. Waldo Messaros. Coulston must be a very tame sort of a man if he allowed his wife to be insulted on repeated occasions and took no steps in the matter other than to ask for his church letter. It appears that he was taking a prying interest in the preacher's affairs. Mr. Messaros, in speaking of his trouble, said he had recently received a present from one of the ladies of his congregation and had written a letter in reply and in the envelope enclosed a picture of his baby and gave the sealed envelope to the sexton to be delivered by him. The latter placed it in a in his study at the church, and when he looked for it after Sunday school in the evening it was gone and was subsequently found in Mr. Coulston's hymn book. The seal was broken, and Mr. Messaros says that a young man of the congregation saw Mr. Coulston open and read the letter. Mr. Messaros declares that, instead of forcing his attentions on Mrs. Coulston, she pestered him with her effusive attentions. Several Sundays ago, he says, she left her husband and took the pastor's arm and walked home with him. She was a constant visitor at his house, and forced herself on himself and wife so persistently that he believes that at last her husband got jealous. The nastor noticed this, and finally told Mrs. Coulston that he did not wish her to walk home with him again. Mrs. Coulston sent notes to the several city editors of Philadelphia, of which the following is a specimen:

THE address of State School Commissione Orr, on "The Best School System for a South. ern State," delivered at the Florida Chautauqua, has been published in a neat pamphlet. It is a very able presentation of the difficulties the south has had to contend with in establishing its school system since the war, and the figures showing our progress in that direction are very encouraging. Mr. Orr succeeds in establishing the following propositions:

1. That a southern state, in framing her school system, ought not in her poverty to have attempted to much, either in the length of the school term or in the compass of the curriculum of studies.

That separate schools ought to have been pro-3. That the children of the two races.
3. That the subject of education and school management ought to have been effectually excluded from the agitations of the political arena.

4. That intelligence, experience, character and property ought to have been put in control of the school interests of the state. The address should be read by all who take an interest in the cause of popular education.

THE West End church of Nashville draws the line at convicts, and declines to admit any striped converts to membership. Recently a revival was carried on in the main prison of the Tennessee penitentiary, and under the preaching of Rev. Dr. Leftwich, of the West End church, there were about twenty conversions. The converted convicts asked to be allowed to join the West End church and Dr. Leftwich was in favor of granting their request. The members of the church objected, and the convicts were told that they must be content to join a church which is run inside the penitentiary for the special benefit of convicts. The impression prevails that the converted convicts were too presumptious. Subscriber, Watkinsville, Ga.: I have looked for the word "fice" in several dictionaries without finding it. How is this? The word fice, as applied to a small dog, is not found in the dictionaries, perhaps, because it is not used in New England, where the dictionarymakers usually live. It is a very common word in the southern and some western states, and, we believe, prevals in Pennsylvania. In the several unsatisfactory explanations of its origin there is one that deduces it from the Pennsylvania German feiss, a little fat dog. Some learned scholars find in it a corruption of foist, but the relation be-tween the verb foist, to impose on, and a little dog is rather difficult to make out.

Property and Prohibition.

Property and Prohibition.

Editors Constitution; The anticipated contesting of the prohibition act on the ground that, contrary to the first section of the fourteenth amendment of the United States constitution, it deprives persons of property without due process of law, naturally gives rise to the question, "does it deprive any one of property at all?"

Does not the amendment contemplate an actual deprivation and not simply a lessening of value In the instance of the Atlanta brewery the value of a large amount of property is very much depreciated. But suppose they could come into the courts with convincing arguments to show that the depreciation of their property, caused by the prohibition act, was such a deprivation as is contemplated by the fourteenth amendment? Would into the in every one, from the owner of an empty half pint flask to the owner of the most expensive bar fixtures, to show that the act was unconstitutional because it had deprived him of his property without due process of law. The half pint flask is not so valuable to the owner as when he could keep it filled with liquor without much inconvenience. The bar fixtures are much less valuable since the purpose for which they were bought is forbidden. Assuming that the act by depreciating the value of property deprives the owner thereof, it would be impossible to pass a constitutional probletion law, for it would be impossible to pass a law which would not lessen the value of the property employed in manufacture, saie and distribution of liquor.

CONSTITUTIONALS.

Pencil Paragraphs and Editorial Shortstops Caught on the Run.

The Constitutionals of yesterday morning dealt with the Panama caual Mr. Thomas H.
Green, who, like Mr. James M. Dobbs, is a contractor on the canal, is in Atlanta for a few days. He disagrees with Mr. Dobbs as to the probability of the canal's being completed.

At the Kimball house, yesterday morning, Mr. Green said to the writer: "Mr. Dobbs is prejudiced in favor of M. De Les eps and his scheme. It is certainly a feasible scheme, but to say that the canal will be completed in three years is non-sense. Even if the French government decides to advance money to the canal company, by lottery or otherwise, it will require at least a dozen years to complete the work. One-eighth of it, as Mr. Dobbs said, has already been completed. That includes houses for the officers of the company on the isthmus, houses for employes, and houses for stores. The excavations do not form the most difficult part of the work. Two rivers are to have their cha changed, and two mountains are to be tunneled. What trouble will be met with in tunneling these mountains nobody knows. It may be that they are nothing but huge mounds of soft dirt, and it may be that they are solid rock. One thing is certain; while the contractors at work upon the canal believe that it will eventually be com they do not believe that the present route will be used. That is, they do not believe that all of it

Mr. Green imparted to the writer much interest. ing information concerning the character of the laborers at work upon the canal. "Mr. Dobbs was correct," he said "as to the cosmopolitan character of the laborers employed on the canal. They are from every country under the sun. Even the remotest Asiatic countries are represented. Chiefly, however, the laborers are negroes from the island of Jamacia. I do not believe that there ever was before such an absolutely lawless collection of men assembled anywhere jon the face of the globe. The superintendents in charge of the canal find it necessary to go heavily armed during every hour of the twenty-four. They control the laborers at the mouth of a pistol barrel or at the muzzle of a rifle. In no other part of the world is human life considered of so little value. The Isthmus of Panama is under the control of the United States of Colombia. In that country no such thing as capital punishment is known. The laws declare that murder shall be punished by ten years imprisonment. This, of itself, gives men license to take the lives of their fellows, but, in reality, the punishment is much lighter. A man convicted of murder usually spends a few months in jail and then, by the payment of a few hundred dollars, regains his liberty. In eighteen months' experi-ence on the isthmus, I am confident that I have witnessed an average of two murders a day. The lamaica negroes are especially careless of human life. They murder each other upon the slightest provocation, and do it in the most cold-blooded and atrocious way. Their favorite weapon is a knife which has a long and very keen blade. A single stab with it suffices to end the life of the victim. Should the canal ever be completed, it may well be said of it that from beginning to end its history was marked by almost numberless murders."

Mr. Green was also asked to give information concerning the climate of the isthmus. In reply he said: "It is the worst in the world. There are two seasons, the wet and the dry. The healthiest periods are in the transition from one season to another. Even at those times the death rate is appalling. The population of the ishmus, including the laborers employed in the canal, is estimated to be one hundred and fifty thousand. The average yearly death rate is one hundred and fifty to the thousand. In the dry season, when the weather is almost unbearably hot, the people die like sheep. Yellow fever is always present. I have seen laborers at work on the canal tall down from exhaustion, caused by black vomit, and die before assistance could reach them. I remember the case of a young man from the states, a very lovable young fellow, who was sized with black vomit at Aspinwall. A physician was summoned. He arrived ten minutes after the message reached him, but the young man was past his skill. His death, horrible one, occurred five minutes after he was seized. The people who stand the climate best are from the states. I don't know why it is so, but the death comparatively low. whom I knew very well on the isthmus, never had a day's sickness there. His case illustrates a curious fact. Previous to his residence upon the isthmus, he had smallpox while engaged in railroad work in the City of Mexico. I have never known a person who had suffered from that disease to be seriously sick while on the isthmus."

Relative to the food eaten on the isthman Green said: 'Meats are not eaten by those ho care to preserve their health. I have often long for a rare beef steak, but I did not dare eaten by those the long are the chief articles of food, together. with some light bread. Hot food is eschewed. Another fact worth mentioning is that people on the isthmus eat but little of anything. If they indulge beartily, sickness is sure to follow. But, whatever precautions he make take, the man that goes to reside on the isthmus takes his life in his hands."

The writer asked Mr. Green if alcoholic liquors were extensively used on the isthmus. "Why," he replied, "more whisky is sold on the isthmus. in one day than is sold in all Georgia in one day. The Jamaica negroes employed on the canal are the hardest drinkers I ever knew. They spend most of their money for liquor of the most flery sort Beer is used to some extent, but, as it is sold only in bottles, it is not as popular as whisky or wine. The French laborers on the canal generally drink champange. They can afford to drink cha because they make from one dollar and a half to three dollers a day."

Mr. Green said that the citizens of the United States on the isthumus were very much disgusted. because their government had not assumed a pro-tective control of the canal. "They feel," he continued," that no foreign nation should be allowed to gain a foothold in Central or South America. They feel, too, that the French will never be able to complete the canal. They are opposed to Eads's ship railway scheme, and are They laugh at the scheme as impracticable. As to the canal, they think the plan could be improved.

M. De Desseps intends that the depth shall be only twenty-nine and a half feet. Such a depth will prevent the passage of very large vessels. The people from the states think that the canal should be deeper."

Mr. Green was asked if the level of the Pacific ocean was higher than that of the Atlantic. "Yes," he said, "it is. It is nine feet higher. But that will make but little difference. On Pacific side. two locks be constructed which will obviate all difficulties There is no doubt about it: the Panama can scheme is feasible, and the canal will surely be completed sooner or later."

GUERRY, GLENN AND COX

MAKE THE WELKIN RING FOR GENERAL GORDON.

Guerry in Newman, Glenn in Dalton and Cox in Barnesville, Brilliantly Set Forth the Claims of General Gordon to Large and Enthu-slastic Audiences—Their Remarks.

NEWNAN, Ga., June 24.-[Special.]-The last political word battle that will be fought in this county during this campaign occurred today, and if Gordon does not carry it, it is no fault of DuPont Guerry, who made one of the best and most telling speeches of the campaign. Notwith-standing his coming had not been generally advertised, from two hundred and fifty to three hundred people, a large majority of them voters, asd in the opers house to hear him.

rembled in the opers house to hear him.

The Bacon men in this county are earnest and pushing, so their proposition to have Hon. W. A. Turner answer Mr. Guerry, was promptly accepted by the Gordon club. Major Turner got all the entertainment he wanted. Mr. Guerry spened with a fifty-two minute speech. Mr. Turner answered at one hour's length, and Mr. Guerry replied in a speech of fifteen minutes. Some small boys ried by superfluous cheering and stamping to disconcert Mr. Guerry during his opening speech, but when he delivered his rejoinder even the small boys joined the entire audience in almost overwhelming enthusiastic applause. The views of several were changed by Mr. Guerry's speach. It was sp(a)h. It was

for Gordon and a glorious trlumph for DuPont Guerry. Hon. Lavender R. Ray, who introduced Mr. Guerry, presented him as "the brilliant young orator of southwest Georgia, though small in statue, is great in brain, and whose services in the future will be of great value to our common country."

Mr. Guerry commenced by saying that "this campaign is a family affair and should be conducted with the utmost good humor and conservatism, so that all would be ready when the result is ascertained to ablee the nomination and elect the nominee overwhelmingly." He regretted that the character of the campaign; as waged by General Gordon's opponents, was such that he could not confine himself to a comparison of the merits of the two candidates, but would have to discuss questions which should never have been lugged into the campaign.

Mr. Guerry, in referring to the claim of Major Bacon's friends that he was defrauded out of the nomination in 1882, stated that he was not defeated by either trick, fraud or legerdemain, but by a greaf conspiracy represented by 203 delegates of the great conspiracy democracy of the state of Georgia, aithough Major Bacon invoked the aid of Georgia, Province to the constitution of the state of Georgia, aithough Major Bacon invoked the aid of Georgia, Province to the constitution of the consti Governor Brown to manipulate the convention for him, but the governor would not manipulate. Mr. Guerry fully offset the alleged Atlanta ring charge by showing up a Bacon and Felton ring.

business, Mr. Guerry showed that Major Bacon woted for the lease act while a sworn officer of the state, and that, although Gordon got rid of his share in the lease years ago, Bacon never saw any-thing wrong in it until Gordon became a caudidate and Dr. Felton convinced him (Bacon) that it was such a terrible thing to hire convicts. The answer to the threadbare slander as to Gen-ral Gordon's resigning his seat in the senate through corrupt motives was complete and con-vincing to any reasonable man. Other senators— Thomas R. R. Cobb, Freeman Walker, John P. King and James Jackson-resigned, and no corrupt motives impelled them. Yet Gordon is charged with "selling out" on mere rumor. General G don but exercised his constitutional right to sign, after he had fulfilled his mission to free his beloved southland from radical rule, to attend to his private business, and that's the whole of it. Mejor Bacon's resignation of the adjutancy of the Ninth Georgia regiment was contrasted with General Gordon's resignation from the senate in a perfectly fair manner.

The Macon Telegraph received a due share of bare hand handling. Mr. Guerry showed how wihat paper denounced Parson Felton before he co-with Major Bacon, and what a great speaker it (the Telegraph) considers him now since the doctor has "joined" the ring.

Mr. Guerry placed Major Bacon in his true position on the railroad commission question, showing that when the bill was hanging between life and death, he could have saved it and did not, and that he could not shield himself by "a little rule of the house." When Mr. Guerry concluded his opening speech with a beautiful and opening speech with a beautiful and eloquent tribute to the south's brave dead, and spoke so feelingly of the hallowed memories that will ever hover around the cause for which they perished, the applause was long and deafening.

Major Tu rner revemped the regulation remarks about the "Atlanta ring," General Gordon's resignation, etc. He hid Major Racon behind his little rule as a reason why he did not vote for the railroad commission bill, etc. The major made no new charges. He referred, however, to his own services in the legislature, and CLAIMED WITH PRIDE that he voted for the railroad commission bill, though he could not point with the same pride to he chief.

Major Turner's speech was heartily cheered by his friends, who doubtless thought he had floored Mr. Guerry, but they changed their minds before the eloquent southwest Georgian had finished his relative. rejoinder. His reply was simply crushing—no other word could express it so well. Mr. Turner's was a good speech, but would have been better if there had been no one to answer it. Major Turner stated that he voted for the railroad commission bill. Mr. Guerry showed by the house journal that Major Turner

VOTED AGAINST THE ORIGINAL BILL.

Major Turner probably did not remember this.

Major Turner charged that General Gordon's friends were not sincere in wanting primaries. Mr. Guerry replied that General Gordon had carried seven counties by primaries since he came into the race, while Major Bacon had carried only two. He also reminded Major Bacon had carried only two. He also reminded Major Turner that General Gordon had also carried a majority of the delegates elected by Major Bacon's mode of election—mass meetings.

Bacch's friends admit that Mr. Guerry scored

A BRILLIANT VICTORY

Over Major Turner, and if it is possible for a speech to turn voters his will have a telling effect. Both sides are confident, but the Gordon men think that Coweta will unquestionably put itself in the

FELTON IN WHITFIELD.

The Young Mountain Demosthenes Swallows Him Again.

Dalton, Ga., June 24.—[Special.]—Dr. Felton arrived today on the up train, and met his appointment at this place. He was met at the appointment at this place. He was met at the train by Colonel William Tibbs, Jr., and Dr. Main, who escorted him to the courthouse, led by the Delton band. The house was filled with about 500 people, the county having been drummed up to bring in a crowd by Bacon runners. Promptly at 12 o'clock, Dr. Main announced that COLONEL WM. GLENN would open the discussion with a thirty minutes' speech, and that Dr. Felton would follow with a two hours' speech, to be followed by Colonel Glenn ad libitum. el Glenn launched out at once in a vigor council Glenn launched out at once in a vigor ous and telling speech upon the issues of the gubernatorial campaign, touching upon the slan-ders against General Gordon, and charging the ders against General Gordon, and charging the Bacon ring in conspiracy with the rail road and other monopolies and agains the people. He claimed to represent the organ ized democracy of the state, and demonstrated Dr. Felton to be the wrecker of the party. He was now, however, snowed under forever, except as a political ghost. He hitherto sought, as a demagogue, only his selfish ends. After paying the gallant Gordon a handsome and eloquent tribute he yielded the floor to Dr. Felton, his time having expired, and sat down, amidst tremendous applause.

Dr. Felton began and continued for two hours his usual harangue, based upon a lot of inferences, out of which mole hills he constructs the huge mountain of opinions which he entertains about Geston. He did not dwell so much upon his record today, though occasionally he paid high tribute of praise to himself. The stereotyped charges gainst Gordon were vigorously put, actribute of praise to himself. The stereotyped charges sgainst Gordon were vigorously put, accompanied with the faint and feeble praise of Bacon injecontrast, and himself standing in the objective front of the picture.

At the conclusion of Dr. Felton's speech, Colonel Glenn arose. Dr. Felton was just.

LEAVING THE HOUSE,
followed only by a few men. Colonel Glenn charged that it was cowardly to leave the house after the many personalities in which he had indulged toward him specially with regard to the Simmons matter. Indignation prevailed pretty generally, to such an extent, in fact, that Dr. Felton was compelled to stay and not take the train. It was then that Colonel Glenn poured out a volume of sarcastic replies to the personalty of Dr. Felton, which brought down the house with tremenous and repeated applause. For several minutes at a time Colonel Glenn could not speak at all for the uproar. It was "Hurrah for Glenn!" as often as uproar. It was "Hurrah for Glenn !" as often as uproar. It was "Hurrah for Glenn!" as often as for "Gordon." Then the colonel took up the arguments, in detail, of the doctor, and punctured them in a marvelously condensed, logical and potent stries of arguments, eloquently and powerfully put. The convict lease system, the Huntingdon slander, the Newcombe connection, the Atlanta ring, the protection of the Western and Atlantic railroad, the Gordon resignation and the like were scattered to the four winds, while Doctor Felton sat apparantly as badly a backed man as was ever seen. Colonel Glenn closed with a magnificent eulogy of Gordon, amidst the repeated plaudits of a roaring multitude. Doctor Felton lossed about 5 fo'clock, the audience having sat five hours to hear the eloquent speakers. Our young Demosthenes held his own with the powerful Felton, and over-matched him by far in the arguments employed in the defence of Gordon week he deventil the of Rescan him by far in the arguments employed in the de-fense of Gordon and the demolition of Bacon and his defender. The crowd was large, and about two-thirds were Gordon men. Doctor Felton's coming was a failure for Bacon, and many of the crowd were stoked it. crowd were sick of it.

COX IN PIKE.

Hon, Albert Cox Speaks to an Enthusiastic Crowd in Barnesville.

BARNESVILLE, Ga., June 24.-[Special.]-On yesterday, by invitation of the Gordon club of Pike county, Hon. A. H. Cox made one of his conservative and dispassionate arguments in favor of General John B. Gordon. The speaking was at the opera house, which was filled by a large and enthusiastic audience—from five to six hundred being present.

The orator was introduced by Hon. Henry R. Harris, Jr., of Barnesville, who prefaced his introduction by an eloquent, chaste and ringing speech inflavor of General Gordon. The argument of Mr. Cox was well received by both Gordon and Bacon voters and the large crowd dispersed in perfect good feeling. Pike county is claimed by both sides, but the prospects are that it will be carried for General Gordon by his friends and supporters, who are at work and enthusias

It is thought that Chattooga will elect delegates in favor of Hon. J. C. Clements for congress. This sentiment prevails in memory of the fact that he succeeded in putting Dr. Felton on the retired list a few years since, and in addition thereto has made us a good representative.

Oglethorpe Can't be Bartered. WINTERVILLE, Ga., June 24.-Editors Constitution: When certain local politicians and exmembers of the legislature conspired to barter to Major Bacon the franchise of the people, it doubt-less never occurred to their minds that it might be possible for the people to entertain some desire to be heard in the matter. It is a self evident fact be heard in the matter. It is a self evident fact that Oglethorpe county has been bartered and pledged to the major from the way a certain exmember is employing his time in stumping the county in his interest. It is rather amusing to the people to see how anxious this ex-member is to get them to ratify his bargain and sale of their political rights. Not satisfied with his own zealous labors in the matter, he has recently imported two political bummers from adjoining counties to help him Baconize this county. If the trio have made no better headway in the balance of bors in the matter, he has recently imported two political bummers from adjoining counties to help him Baconize this county. If the trio have made no better headway in the balance of the county than they have made in Beaverdam district, the ex-member had better forthwith notify the major that when he bartered him the vote of Oglethorpe county forhe was laboring under a grave misapprenension of facts and they had better cancel the trade at once, for after his imported bummers had arduously canvassed one of the districts of the county (Beaverdam) they were only able to report one convert as the result of their labors, and the district, immediately after said canvass, called a meeting at their voting precinct, and out of forty-three voters forty-two were for General Gordon and the balance for Major Bacon. The meeting was called to show the disgust of the people at such political methods and to enter a protest against the later action of the Bacon members of the executive committee of the county in falling to order a primary election in compliance with the expectation and wish of four fifths of the voters of the county. Our district furnishes a fair specimen of the injustice perpetrated upon the people by courthouse cliques. In the late meeting of the committee the main who misrepresented as being a Bacon man by his vote (for the vote was a tie without him) not only did he defeat the will of the people of his own district, but the entire county. The Bacon members of the committee, except one—and they have a majority without him—have called a courthouse meeting on the first Tuesday in July for the ostensible purpose of electing Bason delegates, and if they fail to carry out their purpose by the presence of General Gordon's friends, they will no doubt then be generous enough to favor a primary election, in order that they may have a second opportunity to elect their men. Such questionable means employed to defraud the people is sure to meet with a just retribution at the ballet box. In the language of Bill Arp the bo

Not Much of a Club.

COVINGTON, Ga., June 24.—[Special.]—The bulldozing club of twenty five that was organized in this town last week in the interest of Major Bacon, assembled again tonight at the courthouse in order to add more victims to their list. The in order to add more victims to their list. The room occupied by this organization was gloomily lighted, and the objects that walked about it were hardly discernible. It is learned that six men took the iron-clad oath used by this club in receiving new members. If this is true it swells the list to thirty-one. It is believed that this is the last effort this club will make in the interest of Bacon, as they realize their work is all in vain. The glad news has just reached us that Oconee sends Gordon delegates. This was received with great cheers from the Gordonites and groans from the Baconites.

OCONEE FOR GORDON:

THE CREATEST OF ALL RECENT VICTORIES.

The Little County Sends a Gordon Delegation As One of the Prettiest Fights on Record—Twiggs Delivered to Bason as Fer Programme— Notes Concerning the Campaign.

WATKINSVILLE, Ga., via Athens, June 24 .-[Special.]—Oconee county for Gordon!

The Bacon boom has been hit just between the eyes in this gallant little county and today died a natural death at the hands of the people of Oconee. None are more surprised than the Gordon men of the county, for while they have been hard at work they appreciated the odds against which they were contending, and more than estimated the strength of their opponents. Outside of the county, Oconee has not been considered doubtful as a Bacon county. The friends of General Gordon never dreamed of carrying So certain did they consider it for Bacon that he was advised not to speak there but occupy the time in more doubtful counties. everal requests were sent for General Gordon to come here, as his friends believed that his presence would go far toward overcoming the strong influence against him. The general himself was anxious to go, and stated that he "would not fear the result if be could just have a word with the people." But it was thought best for him to occupy himself elsewhere, and Oconee was left in the hands of his friends in the county. A few weeks ago they begun to work, with what seemed but little possibility of success. They were antagonized by the strongest local political influence of the county, which was thoroughly orgnized. Cam-paign literature was poured into the county, but of late a class of it from Macon has really helped General Gordon by disgusting his opponent's supporters. The full influence of and being only a few miles apart, proved very strong.

But the friends of General Gordon were active, and the result of their work is shown in today's vote. The largest democratic gathering ever held in this county assembled in Watkinsville. Almost the full white vote of the county was polled. The contest was a very close one and much interest and enthusiasm was manifested in the proceedings.

Clarke county was brought to bear for Bacon.

The poll resulted: For Gordon, 215.

For Bacon, 200. The delegates elected are Thomas Booth and J. T. Hester, and they are both enthusiastic for Gordon. The Gordon men are highly elated tonight over their brilliant victory.

Twiggs for Bacon.

BULLARDS, Ga., June 24. - [Special.] - Twiggs county today elected Bacon delegates by only a majority of fifty-six in a vote of three hundred and six. This has been considered one of Bacon's strongholds, and the closeness of the vote was a revelation to General Gordon's supporters in the county. In a primary election, General Gordon would have carried the county beyond a doubt.

Judge clarke is not an aspirant to a seat upon the supreme bench, but if he were the malicious Mings of the Telegraph would be very unlikely to have any effect upon his chances of election, unless it be to strengthen them. The Telegraph shows very little judgment in conducting the campaign, and in its strengthen them. The Telegraphishows very little judgment in conducting the campaign, and in its blind partisanship it proceeds to denounce every public man whom it finds out is in favor of General Gordon, no matter from what irresponsible report. Every intelligent man knows that this course will do Major Bacon more harm than good, as is attested by the fact that hundreds and thousands of good men have been driven to the support of General Gordon by the very violent, untair and abusive course of the Telegraph against him.

The people of southwest Georgia generally, and of the Patabla circuit in particular, will be slow to forget the malicious and unjust attack of the Telegraph upon Judge Clarke, one of the purest and ablest judges that ever sat upon the bench of Georgia, and the prompt action of the Gordon club of Fort Gaines in denouncing the attack of the Telegraph and its correspondents, will meet with hearty indorsement everywhere. If the Telegraph wishes to retain the support of decent and conservative people it will have to cease its present policy. Until it does it need never expect to see any man elected in Georgia whose cause it chamthe Montgomery Meeting.

The Montgomery Meeting. Mount Vernon, Ga., June 22.-Editors Contitution: Montgomery county chose delegates on the first Monday in this month. A few men met at the courthouse. A chairman was elected. He appointed a committee which selected delegates. After a few minutes' absence they returned with the names of a few men, the most of whom were on the committee, as delegates to the gubernatorial convention. This was ratified without first taking up the minority report, which was to support A. O. Facon so long as there was any hope of his nomination. Of course there were Gordon men present or there would not have been a minority report. If there had been a primary election, Gordon would have gotten the delegates by a large majority, probably three to one, is my humble belief, as there were but a few farmers present; they being Gordon's strengest supporters. Of course they appointed Bacon delegates. I am not a political man, neither do I wish to be, but I want to see the people get justice. That they cannot get unless we resort to primary elections in selecting our delegates.

LAGRANGE, Ga., June 24, 1886.-Editors Constitution: I notice an article in the Augusta Chronicle of recent date, copied from the Madon Telegraph and signed by E. W. Butler, in which Telegraph and signed by E. W. Butler, in which the writer claimed to report a conversation with Captain J. T. Wingfield, of Washington, Ga., who spoke in the most culogistic terms of the courage of Major Eacon on the battle field while acting adjutant of the Minth Georgia regiment.

Disclaiming any intention whatever of trying to detract from the merits of any man in any sphere, and admitting that Major Bacon may be brave and all, even more than his triends claim for him, I fin at a least to know where and when Cantain and admitting that Major Bacon may be brave and all, even more than his triends claim for him, I fim at a loss to know where and when Captain Wingfield had an opportunity of witnessing this courage, certainly not on the battle field.

The "first Manassas" was the only battle fought by that part of the army to which the Ninth belonged while Captain Wingfield's company (company A) was attached to this regiment, and the regiment was not in that battle.

You may remember as well as myself, and history so records the facts, that a portion of Johnston's army did not reach "first Manassas" from the valley in time to take part in that great battle. The Ninth Georgia was with that part of the army, hence, could not have taken part. During the ensuing winter Captain Wingfield's company, at its own request, was transferred from infantry to the artillery service. This occurred, I think, in December, 1861. It was then detached from the Ninth Georgia regiment. The writer, then a mere lad, went to Virginia and enlisted in the artillery under the brave and efficient Captain J. T. Wingfield, and remained with hin until the last day at Appomattox.

The first Manassas then being the only battle

Captain J. T. Wingfield, and remained with him until the last day at Appomattox.

The first Manassa then being the only battle fought while Wingfield was with the Ninth, and they were not engaged in that, I do not see how Captain Wingfield can be a witness to the courage of the adjutant.

The battles around Richmond in 1862 were the first that Captain Wingfield's company was engaged in. I repeat, far be it from me to disparage the courage or any other merit Major Bacom may have. I simply want the facts to go on record.

Gordon in Randolph.

From the Cuthbert Enterprise. Allow me a short space in your columns. I want to say to my old soldier friends, as well as all others who were with General John B. Gordon in the Virginia campaigns of the late war, that our ties of friendship began with him in the war, and the longer he lives the greater our love is for him. We put our confidence in him while leading us in the various battles of Virginia. His kind words to us before entering a battle, "Put your trust in God, and fear no evil." Yes, how sweet his voice was to us in our little prayer meetings, and how kind his orders were to us, not to do wrong. I love the name of John B. Gordon—I did not intend to ever have anything more to do with politics; but when I hear the name of my old general standered as it is, I am willing to do and to work for him. I want to say to my Gordon friends, to be sure and be in Cuthbert on the 6th day of July. My dear soldiers of the Thirteenth Georgia regiment, meet me in Cuthbert on the 6th day of July, and let us prove our love for our general by our actions.

If there are any Gordon men in our settlement who have no way of getting to town on the 6th day of July, please let it be known to Dr. J. T. Cleveland, T. M. Gordy, J. T. Jay or N. H. Miller. Yours, as ever,

Company E, Thirte "To Err is Human, To Fergive Divine." EASTMAN, Dodge County, Ga., June 23.— Editors Constitution: I am informed by a friend that Dr. E. H. Bacon feels aggrieved and wounded by some of the language I employed in my communications of 17th and 19th, in which I spoke of his rulings as chairman of the mass meeting to elect gubernatorial delegates as being "arbitrary, unparliamentary, and in the interest of his kinsman, Major Bacon." In those communications I stated the facts, and from the facts drew what I conceived to be the logical conclusions from the standpoint of an earnest supporter of General Gordon. But I do not wish to be understood, in anything I said, as intending to impugn Dr. Bacon's motives and honor, or to say that he withheld the telegram he received and ruled as he did with the intention and for the purpose of promoting Major Bacon's interest, regardless of what he thought was fair and right. He may have thought at the time that his rulings were correct. We are all liable to err, but it does not follow that a manipostible to know what they are. I regret if what I wrote is susceptible of being construed as a reflection upon Dr. Bacon's honor and character. I have no desire to injure or wound him, or any man. Respectfully, JONES COUNTY, Ga., June 24 .- Editors Constitution: Did you ever know old Jones county to go wrong? Well, she is going to be right this time. You can put her down for General John B. Gordon. Major A. O. Bacon's friends claim that he has been euchered out of the governorship sevreal times. Well, I did not know that he ever was governor; and I do not know as he ever will be. They claim that the state of Georgia is indebted to Major Bacon. If this be so he ought to make out his bill and present it to the state treasurer for payment.

I claim that the state owes neither Major Bacon nor General Gordon anything. I was a high private in the war, and I did not get the pay that was promised me. I fought, 'bled and died for my country,' and she owes me nothing.

Any man, when called upon, that refuses to serve his country in time of war or peace, is not a man "after my heart."

I think that the office should seek the man and not the man the office. Bacon is cheap, and crops are good, and General John B. Gordon is going to be our next governor.

NEW YORK STOCKS.

Stocks as Reported at the New York Stock Exchauge.

NEW YORK, June 24.-The market opened de-NEW YORK, June 24.—The market opened decidedly weak this morning, with first prices ½ to ½ per cent below last evening's closing figures, while Northern Pacific preferred was off ¾ and Lake Shore 1 per cent. In early trading, however, the market was strong under the leadership of Western Union, but the gains were generally for only small fractions and the advance was checked before 11 o'clock after which time prices sagged off and o'clock, after which time prices sagged off and continued weak throughout the remainder of the day subject to slight reactions of small fractions. Though the general weakness carried Western Union down in the afternoon Lackawanna was stoutly supported throughout the entire day. The market closed heavy. Final figures show heavy declines throughout the active list, and Cleveland, Columbus and Indianapolis is down 2/4 per cent. Lake Shore 2%, Western Union and Dayton and Hamilton each 1%, Omaha and Wabash preferred 1½ each, Northwestern and Louisville and Nashville each 1%, Union Pacific and Reading 1¼, St. Paul and New York Central and the remainder fractional amounts. The news of the day was un-favorable, reports were circulated that both railroads and strikers were inclined to settle issues for a good time to come. An extension of rate cutting was also reported. Sales 349,000 shares.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Festures of the Speculative Movement in Grain and Produce.

Special to The Constitution Special to The Constitution.

CHICAGO, June 24—Taken as a whole trading in wheat today was only moderate. There were spurts of activity, but speculation as a rule was limited. The prevailing feeling was one of weakness, and at the clase of trading in the aftermon prices were at nearly the lowest point current during the day, closing about 3/20 under yesterday.

Corn and oatsiwere dull and ruled a shade easier. Provisions were strong throughout, and both pork and lard closed higher.

Complete and fully equiped cotton factory, together with nearly a mile of the finest water power on the Chattahoochee river, just above the city of Columbus.

STATE OF GEORGIA, MUSCOGEE COUNTY—By Dyirtue of the power vested in us under the terms and conditions of a certain deed of trust executed to the undersigned J. Rhodes Browne and A. Illges, trustees, by the Columbus manufacturing company, of Muscogee county, state of Georgia, dated March 1, 1881, whereby the said corporation conveyed to us all the property, real and personal, hereinafter described. in trust. to secure the payment of its certain issue of bonds and the interest coupons thereof as in said trust deed specified and enumerated (all of which appears duly of record in Mortgage Deed Book "A." folios 367 to 373, March 5, 1884, in the clerk's office of superior court Muscogee county. Georgia and in Record Deeds, volume O O, pages 81 to 88 inclusive, March 22, 1884, office of the probate court in the country of Lee, state of Alabama, and in conformity with the directions and terms prescribed in the resolutions passed by the holders of said bonds, on April 24, 1886, under the authority conterred by said deed of trust.

We will sell in the city Columbus, Muscogee county, Georgia, on the 3d day of August, 1886, between the legal hours of sale, in front of the auction house of F. M. Knowles & Co. on the northwest corner of Broad street and Tenth (formerly Crawford street.) (being the usual place for sheriff's sales in said city of Columbus) at public outery, to the highest bidder, for cash, the following described property of the Columbus manufacturing company, to-wit: All those lots and parcels of land situated, lying and being, in sollows. Fractional section number thirty-603 in formerly Russell now Lee county, state of Alabama. good work. Present capacity 7,500 yards a day of heavy sheetings and shirtings, three yards to the pound

The operatives' houses and improvements generally in excellent condition, labor abundant, lands elevated and location of property unsurpassed for health, convenience and economical production—free from the burden of municipal taxes paid by all the other Columbus mills, yet within three miles of the city of Columbus and three quarters of a mile of Columbus and Rome railroad. The water power is the finest in the south, controlling and embracing the whole bed of the Chattahoochee river for the distance of about one mile along the lands of the company, said lands extending along its banks upon the Georgia and Alabama sides of the river. Only a small portion of the water power is required and utilized in running the present mill and the natural falls in the river render but a simple inexpensive dam of logs and plank necessary. This magnificent water power is easily controlled and has a fall of forty-two and a half (42%) feet within three-quarters (%) of a mile. With a comparatively small expenditure upon a new dam, 125,000 (one hundred and twenty-five thousand) spindles with looms in proportion can be driven by this water power. Capital for the erection of additional mills and utilization of the immense power now wasted, is all that is needed to make this property the site of a prosperous and populous manufacturing village. The personal inspection of capitalists is invited. Full and satisfactory details will be furnished on application.

THE ATLANTA WHEELMEN .- There will be a business meeting of the Atlanta wheelmen to-night at their club rooms, 8½ Marietts street, A full attendance of the members is requested, as business of importance will be discussed.

THOUGHT TO BE BETTER .- Mr. William T. Tripp was though to be some better last night, though he is still very low. During yesterday he rested quietly. His disease is meningitis of a very dangerous type. The friends of Mr. Tripp trust that he may soon recover.

MILTON MOONSHINERS,-Yesterday Deputy Marshals, Campbell and Scott arrested Posey Olford and Minor Gravitt, charged with il-licit distilling in Milton county. They were carried before Commissioner Haight, waived trial and gave bond in the sum of $300 each.

To VISIT THE RICE PLANTATIONS,-Judge J. T. Henderson, commissioner of agriculture, will go to Savannah on Monday to visit the rice plantations on the coast. Among others, he will visit the magnificient plantation of Mr. A. E. Moynelo. Dr. J. S. Lawton will accompany Judge Henderson.

K. AND L. OF H.—The Knights and Ladies of Honor, Crystal lodge, 1140, will have a called meeting of the officers and members at the residence of F. M. Ica 3. Fitten building, to appoint committees on it opositions and such other business as may come before the body, this afternoon at 3 o clock.

FLOOD ON WHEAT STREET.—Whenever the rains are unusually heavy Wheat street suffers severely. Wednesday afternoon it was flooded, and the residents were made to long for boats. The colored people were the chief sufferers. Some of them found it difficult to preserve their household effects from damage.

ANDERSON STREET IMPROVEMENTS .- Anderson street is rapidly improving, being opened eighty feet wide with street car line to Grant park, makes it one of the fashionable thoroughfares. The sale of J. C. Hendrix & Co. today will give an opportunity to parties wanting a lot for a home to make a selection to suit them.

A SHOOTING MATCH .-- A large crowd witnessed the shooting match last night between Mrs. Jennie Evans and Mr. James A. Baker. Mrs. Evans made one hundred and thirteen out of a possible hundred and twenty. Mr. Baker, call shots, one hundred and four out of a pessible hundred and twenty. The match will be repeated tonight.

URGED TO BE PRESENT .- The Woman's Christian association will meet at four o'clock this (Friday) afternoon in the home, 147 Marietta street. A full attendance of the members is requested, as preparations are to be made for the semi-annual reunion of the association, which takes place on next Monday night at First Baptist church.

FERTILIZEE REPORT.—About the middle of next week the agricultural department will issue its final fertilizer bulletin for 1886. Last year the total number of tons of fertilizers inspected was 170,153. This year the number was 160,728, which was only about nine thousand tons less than last year, when the largest number ever known in the state was inspected.

THE TWO PER CENT DISCOUNT .- About the Two Fer Cent Discount.—About a hundred thousand dollars has been paid into the city treasury under the resolution of the city council giving the two per cent discount. It has been decided to withdraw the two per cent privilege after the 30th inst., regardless of the amount that is paid in up to that time. On and after July 1st there will be no discount allowed to tax experient. allowed to tax-payers.

ATLANTA POMOLOGICAL SOCIETY .- The ATLANTA POMOLOGICAL SOCIETY.—The meeting of the Atlanta Pomological society tomorrow morning will be one of unusual interest. The subject of the culture of raspberries will be discussed. Besides interesting talks on that subject, other matters will be considered. A fine display of fruit will be made. The association meets in the rooms of the department of agriculture. A large attendance is expected.

CARRIED TO ATHENS.—The remains of Mr. J. T. Lumpkin, whose death was chronicled in yesterday's Constitution, were carried to Athens yesterday morning for interment. A number of relatives of the deceased accompined the remains, and at Athens were met by relatives and friends. The remains were carried to Connec competers and laid to yearly ried to Oconee cemetery and laid to rest by the side of his father, Chief Justice Heary Lumpkin. TOURNAMENT PRACTICE.—The Governor's Horse Guard will assemble today at half past four o'clock, at the new tilting ground, just south of Athletic park, for head and ring practice. This will be the first tournament practice of the company for a long while, and it is probable that a full attendance will be present. The company will assemble today, mounted and in fatigue uniform. A fine track has been prepared on the ground, and an interesting evening will be spent. The company will practice regularly now for its Fourth pany will practice regularly now for its Fourth of July tilt.

AN ATLANTA MAN KILLED.—Yesterday Mr. E. M. Roberts received a letter from Edinburg, Indiana, stating that Rufe Dorsey was killed near that place by a train Saturday. Dorsey was an Atlantian and was quite well known here. He sold papers here when he was a boy. He was married several years ago but a few weeks ago left Atlanta for the west. He had a letter of recommendation from E. M. Roberts & Co., and it was by that letter that he was identified. His wife is now in Atlanta and the letter which Mr. Roberts received yesterday was her first intimation of Dorsey's death.

THE STEPHENS MONUMENTAL ASSOCIATION.—Miss Mary A. H. Gay, the agent of the Stephens monumental association, informed a Constitution reporter yesterday that the purchase money for "Liberty hall" had not all yet been paid. The association is in possession of the hall, and has built a schoolhouse immediately opposite it, in which a flourishing school is in operation. No money has yet been raised for the proposed monument to Mr. Stephens. Miss Gay is taking subscriptions in Atlanta of one dollar cach. INTERESTING SCHOOL EXERCISES AT D'GIVE'S OPERA HOUSE.

Bessys and Recitations of Pupils of the Girls' High hool-Judge Van Epps's Address-Gradua-ting Exercises of the Boys' High School-Rev, Mr. Lee's Address-Notes,

The graduating exercises of part of the senior class of the Girls' high school took place at DeGive's opera house yesterday morning, beginning at ten o'clock.

A very large audience assembled to witness the rendition of the very interesting programme. The young ladies exhibited self-possession and ease, evidently the result of faithful training. The essays, recitations, and music were all of an order unusually high. and were alike gratifying to the relations of the young ladies and the friends of the public ols. Major Slaton, the superintendent, schools. Major Slaton, the superintendent, and his painstaking assistants, the teachers, have good reason to congratulate themselves. The Girls' high school has graduated many exceptionally bright classes, but certainly none of them surpassed the class of 1886.

The exercises were begun by an impressive prayer, delivered by Rev. Dr. G. B. Strickler. The song, "Ring On, Ye Bells," was charmingly sung, and then the following programme was rendered.

of Education, Hon. David Mayer.

Rev. Mr. Lee's address was short, but it was full of valuable suggestions. Its general pur-pose was to show that it not one's possessions that make the man, but what he is and does. The address was listened to with the closest attention, and was received with many marks of approval.

In delivering the diplomas, Hon. David Mayer spoke in high terms of the school. He announced, as an interesting piece of information, that the school had graduated, since its foundation, two hundred and ten young In the grammar schools, today, the examinations will take place, beginning at 8:30 a.m. West End Academy.

The closing exercises of the West End academy took place last night at the Park Street church in West End. The church was crowded with the patrons and friends of the school, and all were more than pleased with the entertainment. It was not only worthy of a good school and an excellent teacher, but really reflected much credit upon both scholars and instructors. The principal of the school, Prosessor Lambdin, is one of the ablest teachers that can be found, and he certainly has the hearty support of all the citizens of West End. The prize elecution was the feature of the exercises. ATLANTA AS A SNUFF MARKET. The Third Largest in the World-Where the Principal Sales Are Made.

The Texas newspapers are much exercised about the sins of Atlanta. They claim that while prohibiting the sale of liquor is a step in the right direction, that the city will never be truly moral until it ceases to deal so extensively in the various forms of tobacco.

Yesterday a Constitution reporter sought several of the wholesale tobacco dealers, and showed them the following clipping from a showed them the following clipping from a Trass newspaper:
"Texas newspapers can get even with Georgia by announcing that Atlanta is the third largest snuff market in the country. Apparently the women over there 'dip."
With one exception, the dealers declared that it is true that Atlanta ranks as the third largest snuff market in the United States.

in Atlanta is enormous. Not the quantity sold to consumers in Atlanta, but the quantity sold to retail dealers by the wholesale tobacco

"There is no doubt about it," said Mr. P. H. Harralson, of the firm of Harralson Brothers & Co., "Atlanta is not only the third largest snuff market in the United States, but it is the third largest in the world. Why, my firm sells to three merchants in a single town in

"In what states have you the largest trade?"

"In Georgia and Alabama.

ALABAMA IS GREAT ON SNUFF and Geergia is not far behind. Tennessee is also a great snuff state; so is North Carolina. In South Carolina the sales of snuff are less than in any other state in the union. People over there don't seem to care for tobacco in that form."

Mr. W. A. Russell informed the reporter that he thought Savannah and Memphis sold as much snuff as Atlanta. He said, however, that he was not well informed as to the amount sold in Atlanta.

In Atlanta the use of snuff is confined principally to the poorer classes. Strange to say, the negroes use but little of it. It is said that the two sections of Georgia which consume the largest quantities of snuff are north Georgia and southwest Georgia.

PRAYERS FOR PROHIBITION.

Meeting of the White Ribbon Band Yesterday Afternoon.

A phase of the prohibition question was developed yesterday which somewhat resembles the fameus work done at Greenville, Tenn., several years ago.

The "White Ribbon Band" held a meeting at the rooms of the Young Men's Christian association yesterday afternoon to pray for the successful enforcement of prohibition in Atlanta. The band is composed of ladies who are members of the Woman's Christian Tem-Perance Union.

At 4 o'clock a Constitution reporter took a at 4 o clock a CONSTITUTION reporter took a seat in the reading room adjoining the parlor in which the meeting was to be held, notebook and peneil in hand, ready to report the proceedings. A few minutes after, a lady played a prelude upon the piano, and then A HYMN WAS SUNG.

Exactly five ladies, joined in the singing, that being the number present. Afterwards three or four others entered, swelling the num-three or four others entered, swelling the number to about ten.

Following the singing of the hymn, one of the ladies read that beautiful psalm beginning, "Hear My Prayer, Oh, God." Then another ladyled in prayer. She prayed long and earnestly for the triumph of the prohibition cause, especially petitioning that its friends in Atlanta be directed as to the best course to pursue. While it was eloquent, the prayer was simple and without circumlocution. It was straight from the heart, and the few young men who sat in the reading room few young men who sat in the reading room with the reporter were profoundly moved by Following this prayer other hymns were sung and other prayers were uttered. The meeting closed at 5 o'clock.

Lumley Johnson Long Fiber Cotton Gin. There has been on exhibition at the state agri-cultural bureau, and is now on exhibition at the There has been on exhibition at the state agricultural bureau, and is now on exhibition at the manufactory of Van Winkle & Co., an invention which expert cotton men and machinists believe is to work a revolution in the process of ginning cotton. The gin is a combination of rollers with teeth so arranged that the roller holds the seed cotton while the teeth pull the fiber off, as the fingers of the hand would do. The lint is perfectly preserved, and can under no circumstances be cut, as with the saws. There is no possible danger of accident, as with the saw gins, to the hands or arms of the person feeding the gin, while the product of lint is equal to the saw gins, to the hands or arms of the person feeding the gin, while the product of lint is equal to the saw gins. This gin is adapted equally well for either long or short staple cotton. A company of capitalists have the enterprise in hand of manufacturing these gins, most prominent among whom is Mr. Thomas A Mitchell, 934 F. street, Washington, D. C. The company have employed the services of our fellow citizen, Colonel Henry D. Capers, of Adairsville, as their general attorney, and, we are informed, will establish a manufactory some where in the south. The inventor, Mr. Johnson, has been in the city with Colonel Capers for several days superintending the exhibition of his ingenious machine. He left for Washington city a day or two age, to return with an improved model, which will form the basis for specifications in the manufacturing of the gin. Our city offers fine facilities for manufacturing. We trust these gentlemen will find it to their interest to locate among us.

Holds Macon Down-Diamond Dasi.

Atlanta met Nashville the second time yesterday at Athletic park, and fairly knocked er out. Shaffer occupied the box for the home team, and never showed up to better advantage, only five scattering hits being made off him, while Mappes supported him in brilliant style. The entire team were in good shape, and played without an error. The feature of the game was a running catch of a line ball by Williams and his throw to first, which would have been a pretty double play if Lynch had touched the base instead of attempting to touch the runner, who slid under him and was safe.

the runner, who slid under him and was safe. Williams was loudly applauded.

The Nashvilles appeared rather nervous, and piled up seven errors in the first five innings, giving Atlanta four runs on errors. Baker pitched a good game, but the slugging of Atlanta was too much for the visitors.

In the eighth inning the Atlantas had two men out and Stricker hit to pitcher, who juggled the ball and had plenty of time to put him out, but pitched the ball to O'Brien, but missed him ten feet, Stricker then stole second and third and scored on George Shafer's and third and scored on George Shafer's hit. There was not much kicking done in the game, which is something rather unusual of

They play again today, and a large crowd will be on hand, as Smith is spoken of as one of the finest pitchers in the league, and will be in great shape this afternoon. Tony Hellman will catch him in his usual fine style. Conway and Mappes will officiate for Atlanta. Following is the score:

Memphis Defeats Chattanooga,

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., June 24.-[Special.]-The Chattanoogas were defeated in a dull and very poor game by Memphis this afternoon, the score standing 9 to 1. Up to the eighth inning the visi-tors had only secured one hit off Shreve, but they scored six runs on two bases on balls, three passed third strikes, two fielding errors and Cullen's roten work behind the bat. In the fourth Peak w burt and McCl ang went in to catch, Cullen going to left and Dickerson to second, where he played miserably. Brynan was hit hard, but no hits were bunched until the ninth iming.

It is very disagreeable to the escort of a lady to have to leave her waiting, while he goes through a promiscuous scramble for the ticket window, and to a small man decidedly aggravating.

Cther cities have tickets on sale up to an hour before the game is called. Why not make it equally as convenient here?

Diamond Dust. Allready George Shafer, the new center fielder has caught on in Atlanta.

The contract of D. C. Sullivan with the Savan-nah club has been approved, Conway and Mappes will be the battery for At-lanta today, and Smith and Hellman for Nash-ville.

The base running today of Goldsby, Stricker, Shafer, Cline, Purcell, Marr and Hillery will be the feature of the game. Manager Schmelz ought to change the name of his club once more and perhaps they will play in better luck.—St. Louis Republican.

better luck.—St. Louis Republican.

Today's game will be a repetition of the very five playing done by the great Nashvilles and the Atlanta champions in their previous games.

Augusta has a fine club, and they are only playing in hard luck, and before the season is over any club coming against them will have to play good ball in order to defeat them.

The Maroons and the Cincinnatis are a stand off. The manager of each club claims to have the finest ball players in the country, but, for some reason or other, they can't win.—Chicago Tribune.

There has been a great deal of talk recently about the successful playing of the Chattanooga team, and the knowing ones predict that plucky Chatta-nooga will be near the top at the close of the sea-

Only two more games before the Atlanta cham-pions leave for a three weeks trip, and the grounds should be packed this evening and tomorrow to indicate an appreciation of the very fine playing done by the club since their return home.

Conway, the Atlanta pitcher, will be very speedy today, as his arm is in fine condition and he hap perfect control over the ball, and he does not intend that Nashville shall pound him out of the box as did Memphis in their last game against Atlanta.

WHERE IS WHITE?

The Colored Parson Does Not Appear for Robert M. White, the negro preacher who forged a name to a money order, is badly wanted by Commissioner Haight and others.

A history of White's offense was given in Wednesday's Constitution. White received a letter at his home, 31 Foster street, addressed to Elijah Gay, who occasionally visited his home. The divine opened the letter, and to his joy found that it contained a money order for $5. He carried the order to the office, and signing Elijah Gay's name. signing Elijah Gay's name

It is supposed he thought Gay not in urgent need of funds, and concluded to borrow it for a short time. In this, White was mistaken, as Gay did need the money and was expecting it. He approached White and asked him if a letter had come to him from his brother John at Conyers?

"Yes," replied the parson.
"Where is it?"

"Don't know right now. It was 'dressed to me, an' I opened it."
"Didn't he send me some money?"

Yes. Three dollars, and said he would send the other two in a few days."

White handed Gay the three dollars and walked off. Gay knew something was wrong and concluded to investigate. He wrote to his brother and asked him how much money he had sent him, and if the letter was addressed to White. He received a reply that HE HAD SENT. FIVE DOLLARS

WANTS $10,000 DAMAGES,

The Widow of Philip Phillips, Who Was Killed in a Well.

Porcenia Phillips, colored, has brought suit against John J. Woodside for $10,000 damages. The woman claims that in the early part of December last the defendant endeavored to obtain the services of Philip Phillips, her deceased husband, to dig a well on the premises of Rev. Mr. Bowden, on Church street. The said defendant wanted only certain instruments used which the deceased declined to do. Daused which the deceased declined to do. Defendant urged Phillips to use dynamite cartridges and not a pick as he was accustomed to use. He believed that it was dangerous and was afraid to undertake it. The defendant insisted, promising to pay all damages if any should occur. Under these conditions, and being in need of work and money, Phillips accepted and began work. A premature explosion of one of the cartridges injured him in a fearful manner. He lingered in great in a fearful manner. He lingered in great pain for thirteen days and died, leaving a wife and five children.

DOWN IN A WELL.

IS WHERE AN ILLICIT DISTILLERY

A Largeand Varied Seizure, Embraoing Everyt From a Gin House to Low Wines—The Disti lery Found in a Well Under a Gin House

One of the most extensive and varied seizrevenue laws was made by Deputy Collector Chisolm assisted by Deputy Marshal McDon-ald, Wednesday night, two miles beyond Stone

The seizure consisted of one man, Benjamin Franklin Killgore, a ginhouse, fifteen horse power engine and boiler, one still, cap and worm, one cotton press, cotton seed, one mill and a number of other things.

Deputy Collector Chisolm has been working the case for nearly a month. He knew that the ardent was being made in or near the ginhouse, and he knew that he would get it even if it was as deep down as the artesian well.

Wednesday night the deputy collector and Deputy Marshal McDonald went down to the mountain and made a careful survey of the surroundings. All was quiet around the gin. not a noise save the chirp of the crickets could be heard.

"DEVILISH LONESOME PLACE," aid the collector, as he quietly walked around.

"I'd rather be in Paulding county," replied the strawberry blonde deputy collector. "I don't like these old houses."

"Me neither, Ding sight rather be in the found everything tight and fast. The windows were tried, but no go. The deputy colector squared himself back, and a few ous kicks brought one of the doors down. The two men walked in. It was as dark as a stack of black cats, but after getting the cold ghosts and chills off them, a lantern was lit and guided scampered over the floor.

"Yes there is, and I am going to find it," replied Mr. Chisholm, stamping his foot on the "What ver hunting for?"

"Want to see if there ain't a cellar under "A cellar?"

"That's er fact, I was raised up here 'bout Gainesville, and don't know much about 'em, and never would have thought of that. We'll find that still now."

And they did. The two men began walking around, and soon found a place in the floor that sounded hollow. They knew they had struck the winning card, and the next thing was to get into the opening.

THEY FIND THE DOOR.

"There's a trap door here somewhere," said the deputy collector.

"Eh; what?" asked his companion.

"A trap door."
"And what the deuce is that?"

"A door in the floor."
"Then I'll find it." And getting down on his stomach he crawled over the floor lizard fashion, feeling every inch of the planks with his hands. He crawl-ed up against a pile of cottonseed, but didn't stop; he just crawled under and was buried from sight. Presently he came out almost suffocated, and with long breath said:
I-I-I-ve foun' it."
"You have?

"You have?
"Yes, lets get this pile of seed away and we'll be in there in a pair of minutes." They went to work and the seed were soon remoued, and sure enough the door was found. It was raised up, and holding the lantern over the opening the two men looked in. They could see nothing save.

THE PITCHY DARKNESS. A string was tied to tne lantern, and it was owered a depth of fifteen feet or more efore bottom was found. Swingbefore bottom was found. Swinging the lantern around they discovered a ladder against the side of the wall. As soon as this was discovered the two men felt all right, and went down. They were soon in an underground distillery. Everything was in tip-top shape and ready for business. There was the still, and everything showed that it had only been a short time since a run had

"Let's get out of here," said the deputy col-lector, who began to turn pale behind the gills. "Not yet. Let's see it all," was the reply of the deputy marshal, who appeared deeply in-

"McDonald," replied the collector solemnly, "had you thought how easy it would be for the moonshiners to slip up here and close that door down on us?"
"Great Lord! No, I hadn't," and up the ladder THE DEPUTY MARSHAL SCRAMBLED.

It didn't need a second's time to make the ascent, and he was soon followed by the dep-uty collector almost dead with laughter. "Narrow escape," began McDonald, wiping the beads of perspiration from his brow.

"Yes," was the only reply the deputy collector could make.
"What the thunder you laughing about?" "Nothing. Just how quick you got out of "It was getting time. If that door had closed down on us we never would have got out. Get me in such a place again." The next thing was to arrest Killgore. They found no trouble in this, for going to his home only a short distance away, he was found enjoying the sleep of the innocent. He was arrested and brought to Atlanta, and gave bond in the sum of $300.

A man was sent down to guard the seizures, and what things can be moved will be brought

Infamous Bargain of Mr. and Mrs. Hill, of Greensburg, Pa.

PITTSEURG, Pa., June 24.—The grand jury PITTSEURG, Ps., June 24.—The grand jury today returned an indictment for conspiracy against Chief of Detectives Roger O'Mars, Det ctive Wetherhorn, of Pensacola, Fla., and Frank E. Hill. The indictment was procured on the testimony of Mrs. Hill, wife of the latter, who eloped from Greensburg last March with J. T. Marchand, a lawyer and one of her husband's friends. They went to Pensa. husband's friends. They went to Pensa-cola, Fla., where they were followed by Hill and Chief of Detectives O'Mara. The capture created as much of a sensation as the elope-ment. Hill acted as if distracted after the the latter two occupying one berth and Hill and O'Mara another, caused no little surprise. Mrs. Hill is rich in her own right, and the surmise that she settled the case with money has now been verified. She gave her husband has now been verified. She gave her husband $10,000 in order to consent to a separation and permit her to live with Marchand. To this she testified before the grand jury. She said, further, that she was threatened by O'Mara and Hill with prosecution and forced to leave Florida and accompany them north under threats of imprisonment when O'Mara was not even provided with the necessary legal papers. Detective Wetherhorn aided O'Mara in this, She claims that O'Mara received a big share of the money. Suit has also been brought by Mrs. Hill against her husband and O'Mara to recover her money and property. Hill was on the stand today and gave the following account of the negotiaand property. eloping couple:

She (Mrs. Hill) said she would never leave Marchand and would never live with me again and proposed again that we should separate and that she would give me $9,000 and we each go our own way. When I found that she would not come with me I accepted her offer. She gave me about $1,600 there and said she bad some bank stock in Pittsburg that she could not sell without my joining in the transfer. She proposed that we return to Pittsburg, sell the bank stock and give me the balance. I consented She then wanted Marchand to accompany us as her autorney. I refused, but finally consented. We then started for Pittsburg; reached there on the morning of the 4th of March last. We then went in a carriage to two of the banks where she had stock. She requested O'Mara to go along to identify me as her husband. Marchand also went along. She made the sale on the stock. O'Mara identified me as her husband, and I joined in the transfer. The money was handed to her. Marchand at her request, counted it, banded it back to her and she put if in her satched. The proceeds of both sales amounted to $11,000. She then proposed a change of the arrangement made at Pensacola. Said if she would give me $9,000 as agreed upon, it would not leave them as much ready money as they wanted, and said she wanted me to accept $8,700 and a deed for the Greensburg property. She insisted upon this, and I finally consented. I employed Mr. Hunter, and she or Mr. Marchand spoke to young Mr. Reardon. Mr. Hunter drew up two deeds—one by my wife and me to O'Mara and one by O'Mara and wife to me. The deeds were delivered and she gave me the money, which, with what she gave me at Pensacola, made $5,700 in all, and I gave a receipt for it. This was all at her own request. I nevermade at threat against her or uttered a word to intimidate or compel her. eloping couple:

mmittee Appointed to Investigate the Ru-more and Report to the General Conn-cil - What the Board Did,

The interesting feature of the meeting of the aldermanic board yesterday was the bringing out of an alleged collusion between bidders on macadam work.

Mayor Hillyer opened the ball by stating to the board that Captain Ed Cox, ex-street su-perintendent, had told him that there was ollusion between S. H. Venable & Co. and M. E. Maher in making bids for macadamiz-ing Crew street, Mr. Maher paying Venable & Co. four hundred dollars to make the bid they

"If this is true," said Mayor Hillyer, "the matter should be investigated."

Mr. Stockdell—"I am informed that the Venables did not want the work, but that Maher gave them four hundred dollars to bid $1.30. I do not know the truth of this,

Mr. Collier—"Since the question has been brought up, I learn that Keley & Redmond were interested with Mr. Maher. Like Mr. Stockdell, I don't know

I also understand that there are rayties who will take the work at $1.00. If this kind of business is going on it should be looked into."

Mr. Maher: "I did promise to pay Venable four hundred dollars for the contract if he got it at figures over $1.25. I know nothing of the bid of Keley & Redmond. That is all there is in it. I did not know what bids would be made. I bid for myself at what I thought—I could do the work at."

square yard.

The commissioner recommended that the contract be awarded Mr. M. E. Maher, the lowest bidder, and it was done.

The report of the commissioner of public works was returned to the city council to investigate
